$2,284,252 IS NEW RECORD IN CITY BUILDING

Construction Total for Greater Victoria Expected to Reach $3,000,000 Mark by End of Year; Nearly Half Million Increase Over Corresponding Period Last Year; City, Oak Bay and Saanich Show Gains.

Totaling $2,284,252 in value for the ten months ending October 31, Greater Victoria established a new building record, eclipsing the corresponding period of last year by $460,262.

Construction statistics figure that the building total for the year, with two months yet to go, will approach, if not exceed the $3,000,000 mark.

The city set a new high record for the period from January 1 to October 31 of this year with permits issued to the aggregate value of $1,568,942. September was the largest month when permits to the value of $631,930 passed through the building inspector's office.

OCTOBER LOW

The building records for October show a total of $631,930, which, with the exception of January and June, was the smallest construction month of the year.

A summary of the city's building operations for the ten months just closed, as announced to-day by James Barf, building inspector, is as follows:

January	$ 52,488
February	120,000
March	127,783
April	184,672
May	121,194
June	37,018
July	127,783
August	631,930
September	631,930
October	63,106
Total	$1,568,942

For the corresponding ten months of last year, building was valued at $1,108,680.

The largest contract awarded in the city this year was for the plant of the Victoria Cold Storage and Terminal Warehouse Limited at Golden Point, which is being built at a total cost of $550,000.

Building has been most active in the municipalities immediately contiguous to Victoria, chiefly, however, in residence construction. A number of costly homes have been built and others are at present under construction in the uplands, the high-class residential district of Oak Bay.

POOLEY ORDERS BOOTLEG DRIVE

Warns New Westminster to Clean Up Affairs in City

New Westminster authorities were given one week by Attorney-General Pooley to-day in which to clean up the liquor situation in their city. If liquor conditions have not been improved in that time, the Attorney-General will instruct the provincial police to clean up New Westminster themselves.

This final warning to New Westminster was issued after he had spent the day in the city, and after he had seen the civic authorities ample time to remedy the situation without interference. Mr. Pooley declared:

"I have been extremely fair with the New Westminster authorities," the Attorney-General stated. "In September I sent an agent to the city to investigate matters there. When I received his report indicating a deplorable liquor situation, I immediately informed the city authorities of this and suggested that they remedy conditions."

NO CHANGE

"A week ago I sent another agent to find out what had happened and he reported that conditions were exactly the same as before."

"Consequently I have formally notified the police commission, the mayor and council that a clean-up must take place within a week and that conditions must remain satisfactory or I will instruct the provincial police to do the work themselves."

Mr. Pooley added that conditions in New Westminster were highly unsatisfactory, laxity in liquor law enforcement was so serious, he said, that the situation could only be described as rotten.

$30,000 FOR BOOK

Boston, Nov. 1.—The Boston Transcript says a copy of "Tamerlane," the first published work of Edgar Allan Poe, has been sold by Charles E. Goodspeed, Boston book seller, to an Indianapolis collector for the highest price ever paid for an American first edition; said to be in excess of $30,000.

MUNICIPALITIES URGE P.G.E. AGREEMENT BE CARRIED OUT

North Vancouver, Nov. 1.—Fears that the West Vancouver municipal council contemplates an agreement with the directors of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway satisfactory to West Vancouver without regard to interests of North Vancouver City and District were expressed by Alderman E. H. Bridgman during a joint meeting of the city and district councils last night. The two councils agreed to get the West Vancouver council had not sent representatives to the conference. Suspension of passenger service on the North Shore section of the railway would mean ultimate abandonment of the North Vancouver-Whitely line, it was declared.

CHARGES STIR LOS ANGELES

District Attorney Asa Keyes and Others Indicted By Grand Jury

Conspiracy to Obtain Dismissal of Charges Against Julian Group Alleged

Los Angeles, Nov. 1.—The Los Angeles Examiner to-day says a number of persons in addition to District Attorney Asa Keyes were named in indictments issued by a county grand jury which yesterday filed accusations of "wilful corruption and misconduct in office" against Keyes and other unnamed individuals.

Among others reported to have been indicted and all of whom are mentioned in the formal accusations are: Jacob Berman, also known as Jack Bennett; A. I. Lasker, Ben and David Getzoff, Ed. Rosenberg and Jack Rosenberg.

Although the sheriff's office remained silent, it is believed that between ten and fifteen indictments had been returned.

JULIAN CASE

All of the men named figured prominently in the grand jury's charges which grew out of the collapse of the Julian Petroleum Company and the trial of its promoters. Berman and the two Rosenbergs were connected with the corporation, the Getzoffs were charged with conspiring with Keyes to extort money from criminal offenders, and Lasker, held in an embezzlement case, was alleged to have given money to Keyes and the two Getzoffs. Keyes directed the prosecution at the trial of the Julian promoters.

BRIBERY ACCUSATIONS

The accusations against Keyes embrace an alleged conspiracy to obtain the dismissal of charges against the Julian defendants or their acquittal in the event of trial. For these services, it was alleged, there was traded by Keyes a sum of $10,000, another unnamed sum and a platinum or gold wrist watch. For dismissal of charges in another case it was alleged, the two Rosenbergs were surreptitiously and the grand jury capped its investigation by charging Keyes on two counts with violation of the prohibition law.

Disclosure of the investigation was closely followed by police action when authorities from the county sheriff's office dispatched a score of deputies to all parts of the city, seeking those accused.

Three Old Sea Captains Star In "Movietone"

Through the assistance of the Chamber of Commerce, Esquimalt Police Force and officials of the Silver Spring Brewery, the Fox movietone operators, Erik Mayell and Paul Heley, here yesterday secured a "talkie" scene of Victoria, romantically portraying the city as a seaport.

Three old-time mariners, Captain Johnson, aged 88; Captain Jacobson, 72, and Captain McIntosh, 97, were the principal actors in the little drama, which took place on a wharf at the foot of Head Street, with the harbor as a background.

While the captains sat on the end of the dock and gossiped about seafaring adventures and "squaffed the foaming ale," the "movietone" recorded the scene pictorially and by sound. One of the sea veterans was a teetotaler, however, and took his "pot of tea" instead.

Assize Trial At Nanaimo Follows Aquarian Hearing

FAIR SPEECH IS HEARD BY MANY

Canadian Trade Minister's Words Carried to Empire Event in Wales

Nanaimo, Nov. 1.—Following the appearance in the witness box of Mrs. Mary Connelly, a blue-eyed, blonde-haired woman of sixty, after a hurried dash across the continent from the eastern seaboard of the United States to give evidence in favor of E. A. Wilson (Brother XII) of the Aquarian Foundation, the latter was bound over this morning to the sum of $5,000 to appear at the next assize, for which the exhibition stands this closed the preliminary hearing of the most sensational case Nanaimo has witnessed in many a day.

EMPIRE TRADE IDEAL

Mr. Malcolm introduced his brief address by expressing the regards of the Canadian people to the people of Wales and declared the ideal of Empire trade, for which the exhibition stands, was finding strong and patriotic support in this country. The Minister voiced a word of praise for the Empire Marketing Board, he said, was only a medium through which the people of the Empire became acquainted and through which were learned the difficulties and virtues of the various parts of the Empire.

POWER CONCERN AGREES TO ASK HOUSE ACTION

West Kootenay Company Assures Premier Solution Will Be Sought

An important step towards the settlement of the dispute between the West Kootenay Power and Light Company and some of its customers was taken this morning when Lorne Campbell, manager of the company, assured Premier Talmie that the concern would ask the Legislature to legalize the sale of its electricity outside its present restricted area around Rossland.

This assurance follows the hearing before the Cabinet yesterday when Mr. Campbell said he would wire his principals in Montreal on the point.

TO SOLVE DIFFICULTY

When the dispute first opened with a demand by Grand Forks and the Grubhy Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company at Allenby that the Provincial Water Board set a rate for power it was argued that the charter under which the power company operates does not cover the districts in question, and power supplied to them is supplied irregularly. On these grounds, the board ruled that it had no jurisdiction and the dispute was then placed by Grand Forks before the board.

Legislation ratifying the sale of power to the district in question should bring the question of rates under the jurisdiction of the water board.

Lake Bluff, Ill., Nov. 1.—Miss Elfrida Knaak to-day was given her last chance to change her story of self-immolation of burning herself, feet, arms and head, to prove her faith in the "mold spirit love" she has persistently pictured—and she would not change it.

One sum of $250,000, agent-payologist student's last chance because of physicians said her death was a matter of hours only, and Sheriff Lawford Doolittle and George Hargrave, private detective, said it was vital to their investigation that they have from the dying woman's own lips a more believable story of what happened last Monday night in the furnace room of the Lake Bluff police station.

Dancing, Fighting And Wife Trading Marked New Year

Port Edmonston was a popular rendezvous of the fur traders in the early days of the West. The days between Christmas and New Year's, when the traders from "outside" gathered, were given up to unrestrained revelry. Henry John Moberly graphically describes a dance in his narrative starting in The Times on Saturday.

"At nightfall the chief factor gave a dance at his big house, with an occasional libation to maintain the fun," writes Mr. Moberly. "People of every sort in the North—white, red and mixed, including full-painted squaws—took part. Eight and four-hand reels and single and double jigs were the favorites, with occasional 'interludes' when disputes arose and the disputants retired to settle them with their fists. These affairs adjusted, the combatants shook hands and the dance continued and was kept up until sunrise next morning."

Next day, if found advisable, the chief factor was required to ratify these marriages; if he did not, there was an end to them, as in that event no native woman would be allowed to marry or her children nor would she be afforded transportation from one post to another."

Immigrant Lad Killed in Ontario; Man Admits He Fired Gun

Says Crowd of Boys Persisted in Annoying Him

Kemptville, Ont., Nov. 1.—Thomas Hart, aged eighteen, an English immigrant boy, was shot and instantly killed last night at Mountain Station, a village near here, and his companion, Lawrence Sims of the same place, was wounded in the shoulder.

The boys, along with others, were playing Halloween jokes around the home of Christie Moore, laborer, when, it alleged, Moore came out of his house and fired a revolver into the crowd. He was arrested, and is being held pending the outcome of an inquest which will be held at Winchester some time to-day.

The Hart boy came to Canada three years ago and was working for his uncle, the Franks family, at Mountain Station. He is survived by

GERMANS GIVE OCEAN ARSHIP BIG WELCOME

Thousands Greet Passengers and Crew of Graf Zeppelin at Friedrichshafen Field

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Nov. 1.—The German air liner Graf Zeppelin, after successfully braving winds and storms for a record-breaking dirigible crossing of the Atlantic, almost came to grief on landing at the hanger here to-day at 7:06 a.m. (10:06 last night Victoria time) because thousands of enthusiastic Germans threatened to rush the gondolas. It was only with the greatest difficulty that the great airship was "walked" into the hanger and the gangplank put up after a flight that had taken the dirigible east to west over the North Atlantic in seventy-one hours and twelve minutes, completing the first round trip transatlantic commercial air voyage in history.

Arriving from Lakehurst, New Jersey, exactly three weeks after their start from here on October 11 on the voyage to Lakehurst, Dr. Hugo Eckener and his crew found their fellow townspeople delicious with joy. The police had given permission for the cafes and restaurants to remain open all night and this meant that to all intents and purposes the town did not go to sleep for fear of missing the landing.

MALAYA SHIPS MUCH RUBBER

Large Supplies Will Reach Market; Restriction Plan Is Ended

Singapore, Straits Settlement, Nov. 1.—With all restrictions removed, the rubber market was normal to-day, with prices unchanged.

The Stevenson restriction scheme, which regulated exports from British Malaya and Ceylon, which was instituted five years ago, ended with the close of October. Free export of rubber is now permitted and price movements will be subject to the economic law of supply and demand.

Although prices were unchanged to-day, large rubber exports were gathering weight in the interior and developments were expected soon.

The official estimate of rubber stocks at the end of September was 60,000 tons, but the total amount awaiting shipment might easily be 80,000 tons more by now.

The railway and shipping facilities of Malaya will be severely taxed for the next two months. Estimates of the amount of rubber to leave Malaya during November are 45,000 tons. The December estimate is even higher.

Special trains have been scheduled to deal with accumulated stocks and the first two of those trains were due to leave Singapore to-day with 600 tons.

A. E. Reynolds Killed at Camp Borden When Plane Plunges to Earth

Major Currie of Ottawa Injured; Cause of Accident Not Yet Known

Camp Borden, Ont., Nov. 1.—Flying Officer A. E. Reynolds was killed to-day when his plane crashed here. A passenger, believed to be Major Currie of Ottawa, was seriously injured.

The plane dived to the ground from a height of 200 feet. Officers of the Royal Canadian Air Force were unwilling to express an opinion as to the cause of its sudden descent.

A court of inquiry will be held immediately.

Major Currie, who is attached to an Ottawa militia regiment, was a visitor at Camp Borden and was taken up by Flying Officer Reynolds as a passenger.

SERVED IN WAR

Reynolds came to this country from England last Spring, and since then had been engaged as flying instructor at the camp. According to officers he was a war pilot with a good flying record.

Major Currie is confined to the camp hospital with a broken leg, and it is feared he may also have suffered internal injuries. He is expected to recover, but it will be some time before he is in a fit condition to be moved.

The accident occurred at the aerodrome shortly after the start of the flight.

Wife of San Francisco Man Found Unconscious on Neighbors' Doorstep

San Francisco, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Ray L. Cooper, San Francisco woman who disappeared a week ago to-day and was believed to have been held by kidnapers who demanded $10,000 from her husband, early to-day was found on the doorstep of the home of Peter D'Haveloose, a neighbor, in an unconscious condition. She was only partially dressed.

D'Haveloose called the police and Mrs. Cooper was taken to a hospital where physicians said she apparently had been starved. Mrs. Cooper revived only for a few minutes, failed to recognize her neighbors and told them to go away and leave her alone.

NO AUTOMOBILE SEEN

Neither D'Haveloose nor his wife could see anyone near their home when the woman was found. A minute after the doorbell had summoned them to the door. They had not heard an automobile moving in the street, either, they said.

Last Thursday Mrs. Cooper disappeared and her husband asked the police to search for her. Monday he received a letter with a Sacramento postmark that demanded he pay $10,000 for the safe restoration of his wife. Failure to do this or comply with other requests, the note said, would mean the woman would be starved to death.

SHARPEST CONTEST BETWEEN REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS SEEN IN THAT STATE; HOOVER, REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENCY, GOES TO CALIFORNIA; SMITH RIDES UP BROADWAY AT HEAD OF PARADE.

New York, Nov. 1 (By George Hambleton, staff correspondent of the Canadian Press)—The "great battle for the Presidency of the United States has entered its final phase. To-day Herbert Hoover, Republican candidate, called on President Coolidge for a few words before leaving for his California home, where he will cast his vote on November 6. Fresh from his spectacular invasion of New Jersey, Governor Smith, Democratic candidate, rode up Broadway at the head of a procession. At the Madison Square Garden on Saturday he will make his last platform speech of the campaign.

CENTRE OF BATTLE

And in New York as in probably no other state in the Union, the rival organizations are fighting might and main. Just off Times Square, crowds gather hour after hour for a talking-moving picture that roars out Democratic arguments above even the roar of Broadway.

An army of rival workers is adding to the babel and noise of procession and demonstrations in the more telling forces of the quiet personal appeal. Hand-to-hand they are contesting every corner of the state, for New York State has forty-five votes in the Electoral College. Alone it returns more than one-sixth of the 295 votes in the Electoral College needed to elect a president. But that is not the sole reason for the battle in New York. It is the Presidential election for Governor of the state, Democrats have six times been successful. Those six times the winning candidate has been Governor Smith. Twice it has been a home where, as a boy, he sold newspapers at the foot of Roosevelt Street. It is the home of his political fortunes.

BOTH SIDES FIGHTING HARD

In fourteen Presidential elections New York has ten times gone Republican, but Governor Smith's followers are determined to show he can carry it in a Presidential election. The Republicans are just as determined to keep the state and at the same time make a dramatic strike at the political fortunes of Governor Smith.

In past contests for Governor, New York City has rolled up the great Democratic majorities. It is now the centre of the swing element in the state and Tammany is straining every effort to pile up still greater majorities in the city. The Republicans have organized throughout the state on a scale they have never equaled before.

REGISTRATIONS INCREASE

Both organizations find comfort in the increased registration over that of 1924. The Republicans claim they will keep down the Smith plurality in New York City and roll up sufficient in the rest of the state to wipe it out.

The Democrats estimate their New York City plurality at 800,000. They contend it will be great enough to carry the state and the forty-five votes in the Electoral College.

EXCAVATION FOR STORAGE PLANT STARTS

Contractors Commence Work on $550,000 Plant at Ogden Point

Active work in clearing and excavating at the site of the cold storage plant at Ogden Point is under way this week, with approximately forty men engaged in the work. Parfitt Bros. have the contract for the construction of the main building, five-story steel structure and concrete structure to cost in the neighborhood of $400,000. The equipment and machinery will be installed at a cost of $150,000 additional.

An additional permit was taken out at the City Hall this week to cover the erection of concrete and steel office buildings. Plans for the whole structure were prepared by Messrs. Swan & James.

The plant of the Victoria Cold Storage and Terminal Warehouse Limited will rise at the inner end of the Ogden Point piers, between the two concrete docks, and facing on the interior space between. It is the second undertaking to be commenced at Ogden Point, the completed grain elevator being the first.

The cold storage plant will be equipped with machinery to handle all types of sea and farm produce, from freezing to pre-cooling, for storage and shipment to distant markets. Plans will assume a large part in the products handled. It is stated, while provision is also to be made for egg storage in a large way.

SOCIAL CLUB OF LAUNDRY MEETS

Banquet is Tendered Employees of Standard Steam Laundry and Friends

The Sons-of-Canada Hall was the scene of an interesting gathering on Tuesday night when the Social Club of the Standard Steam Laundry Limited held a banquet for the employees and their friends. The proceedings began about 8 o'clock, and for one hour and a half many different games were enjoyed by all present.

At 9.45 all were invited to make their way to the supper room, where a splendid supper was served. Driver T. Branson presided.

Driver H. W. Ralston proposed a toast to the firm. The Standard Steam Laundry started twenty-five years ago as the Crystal Laundry, owned by twenty Victorians. Mr. Ralston remarked: "Under this management it went into the receiver's hands. The bankrupted business was taken up by five others."

The present manager came into this firm in 1908 as the engineer. Mr. Richards related. He bought out Mr. Goodridge, one of the partners in 1909, and had the partnership formed into a limited company. By 1911 Mr. Savage had control of the firm which to-day is still controlled and owned by the Savage family.

H. R. Savage, manager of the company, in reply to the toast, said: "I might say that this Social Club has been an eye opener to me. It was started by two or three of the employees, and the events they have arranged and carried out have been a surprise. I would like to take this opportunity on behalf of Mrs. Savage and myself of thanking the Social Club for the privilege of being its guests this evening."

Driver H. Milnes proposed a toast to the "inside staff." Mr. Milnes paid a tribute to the inside staff, whose co-operation and willingness to help meant such a great deal to the drivers.

H. E. Savage, superintendent of the plant, in reply, said: "On behalf of the inside staff and myself I would just like to say that we can only be successful as the drivers help us. It is only by the work of the drivers that we can do our best work. The driver is the connecting link between the public and the employees."

Miss I. Reynolds proposed a toast to the drivers, the connecting link between the public and the inside staff.

In reply C. E. Savage, foreman of the drivers, urged general co-operation of the staff members as in the past.

Mrs. Huntington of the starch and ironing department proposed a toast to "Our Guests," a reply being made by V. Harford.

Driver C. E. Hunt thanked the members of the Social Club for the efforts in arranging this event.

Miss C. Graham, who had been an employee of the Standard Steam Laundry for the last fifteen years, was presented with beautiful basket of carnations by Mrs. H. R. Savage on behalf of the firm.

NEW SALT TAX PLAN IN CHINA

Peking, Nov. 1.—It has been learned on reliable authority that under the new salt gabel regulations the Chinese Nationalist Government assumes full responsibility for loans secured by the salt revenues. District inspectors will pay these revenues into a bank named by the Finance Minister, who will provide the funds due upon the loans.

VIEWS DIFFER
Shanghai, Nov. 1.—Disagreement between the Japanese representatives and those of Britain and France over joint negotiations concerning the Chinese Nationalist Government's new salt gabel regulations has been reported from Peking.

It is understood Japan considers the Nationalist regulations unsatisfactory and suggested the interested powers hold a conference to devise an adequate scheme to replace them. The British and French diplomatic representatives rejected the Japanese proposal, whereupon the Japanese Charge d'Affaires informed them he was reluctantly compelled to withdraw, and that Japan would henceforth act alone in the matter.

Debate Result Is In Favor of Press

Toronto, Nov. 1.—Following a debate last night, the modern press was vindicated by a narrow majority against the indictment "that in the opinion of this House it exercises a demoralizing influence on society."

The vote was 97 to 90 against the charge.

Professor G. M. Wrong of the University of Toronto supported the indictment and R. E. Knowles spoke against it.

Professor Wrong criticized the press on the inadequacy of its news and on its false sense of values.

For the defence it was contended the press simply mirrored society and that if it contained an element which was questionable, it was simply because that element existed in the world itself.

POLICE OFFICERS TO RETIRE

Hoover Says He Will Be President

Washington, Nov. 1.—A prediction of Republican victory was made yesterday by Herbert Hoover, Presidential candidate, in his final conference with Washington newspapermen.

"We shall win this election without any question of doubt if the people who believe with us will go to the polls," he said.

The Republican candidate's declaration was made in response to an inquiry as to how he felt about the outcome. The nominee gave his statement as a smile played about his face. "I appreciate the way you have handled this campaign," he said to the newspaper correspondents. "There has been an extraordinary degree of fairness in everything you have done."

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—Word has been received here that Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador to the United States, and Lady Isabella Howard will be in Ottawa on Armistice Day, November 11. NATURALISTS OF COWICHAN MEET

Officers Elected By Society For Next Year

Duncan, Nov. 1.—The annual general meeting of the Cowichan Field Naturalists' Society was held in the Agricultural Hall on Monday evening, the cultural hall on Monday evening. There was a good attendance of about thirty. The president reported that last season had been a pleasant and successful one, but that the various excursions planned had not been so well attended as he could wish.

Four new members were enrolled, Mrs. W. de B. Hopkins, Mrs. Bradley, Miss Yeoman and Miss Maud Wilson. Much regret was expressed at hearing Mr. Day's decision to resign from the presidency. He felt that he could no longer continue in this position, he said, but was willing to help in every way in his power.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to him. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Admiral Nugent; first vice-president, G. O. Day; second vice-president, Colonel Dopping-Hepental; committee, Mrs. G. H. Townend, Mrs. F. S. Leather, Mrs. G. G. Henderson, Mr. Mason and Archdeacon H. A. Collier; secretary-treasurer, A. W. Hanham.

A unanimous vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. Hanham for his excellent work as secretary of the club for several years.

At this meeting it is usual for members to bring specimens of their collecting and work during the summer. Mrs. F. S. Leather exhibited two fine water color sketches, which she had painted, one at Departure Bay, looking towards Nanaimo, and one at Massena Island, looking towards Maple Bay. Mrs. G. G. Henderson showed shells which she had gathered at Salt Spring Island, Galiano Island and Montserrat Harbor. G. O. Day showed a number of moths which he had taken by electric light. Moths and butterflies in this country very much resemble those of the west. Mr. Hanham also had two cases of interesting specimens, and a beautiful and rare shell from southern California.

Dennis Ashby gave a most interesting talk on birds, telling of their haunts and habits. He mentioned that the Island in Quamichan Lake was well worth a visit. Mr. Colliard also exhibited some rare stones and shells from Florida, Ontario and the Indian Ocean.

A meeting of the Duncan City Council was held on Monday evening, the Mayor, J. L. Muttter, presiding. The report of the finance committee was adopted and the accounts recommended for payment will be paid.

The report of the streets committee regarding Front Street, Philip Street, and Hospital Hill was adopted, and the work proposed will be carried out.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS
The fire department recommended the purchase of a two-and-a-half-ton chassis at a cost of $2,445, the equipment on present truck to be transferred to the new one. The whole cost, including alterations and enameling with the fire department's red color, will be approximately $3,000. This was agreed to.

A letter was received from the manager of the E. and N. Railway stating that work on the crossing in Duncan will be proceeded with at once.

A bridge and five hundred party will be held at the Nurses' Home on Monday evening, November 5, proceeds to go towards the furnishing of the new addition to the home, which is now completed.

Mrs. Jan Van Huidekoper, of Vancouver, is visiting her mother, Mrs. D. V. Porteous, Cowichan Station.

Many Thanks Mrs. G.

We just love to get a letter like this. It is from Mrs. Gordon: "I think Pacific Milk is one of British Columbia's finest products. After opening a can one can't help becoming fascinated with its rich, creamy contents. What other products, I wonder, could we use in all three courses of a meal? It enriches our soup, adds creaminess to our mashed potatoes or salad dressing, and is just wonderful in our desert, either whipped or plain." This is an excerpt.

A VITAL VICTORIA QUESTION

DOES BRITISH COLUMBIA WANT TO preserve the benefits which the province now enjoys by the operation of the Canadian-Australian trade treaty? Does British Columbia want the provisions of that agreement extended? Does Victoria want to retain these advantages and obtain more? These are important questions which the electors of this constituency should ask themselves before they go to the polls on December 6 to choose their representative in the House of Commons. Dr. MacLean is a supporter of the Government at Ottawa that negotiated the treaty which such newspapers as The Vancouver Daily Province continue to describe as a great boon to British Columbia industry under many heads. The party led by Mr. Bennett attacked the treaty on every occasion and would kill it if it could. If a supporter of the Opposition should be sent to Ottawa as Victoria's representative, therefore, he would, of course, be compelled to support his party's attitude in this respect.

The development of this port is of vital concern to all the people of this community. Our present lumber trade is one of the most important factors of our water-borne commerce. At present British Columbia supplies only 50,000,000 feet out of the 800,000,000 feet which Australia imports every year. Victoria shares in this business; but the United States supplies Australia with 350,000,000 feet—300,000,000 more than this province sells her. With this unpleasant fact before it a delegation composed of British Columbia's leading lumbermen went to Ottawa recently and asked the Government to use its influence towards getting lumber put on the same preferential basis in the Australian market as that which our pulp and paper and fish now enjoy. Needless to add, Mr. Robb, the Minister of Finance, who went to Australia and finally, after many years of effort on the part of Canada, succeeded in negotiating the treaty, assured the delegation that its members could depend upon him to do his best to persuade the Australian Government to widen the scope of the agreement so as to meet their wishes; but he emphasized the economic axiom that in order to sell it is necessary to buy.

What would it mean to Victoria if British Columbia's lumbermen succeeded in their object? Competent authorities assert that the concession for which they have asked would mean that this province would be selling Australia anywhere from 300,000,000 to 400,000,000 feet of dressed lumber annually. Of this amount the mills of this city would turn out at least 60,000,000 feet, or 10,000,000 feet more than the province as a whole now is supplying. Reduce this to the hard facts of dollars and cents. For instance, if Victoria's share were only 25,000,000 feet in excess of the present output of lumber for all markets, there would be work for 160 additional men at a payroll of $15,000 a month, or $180,000 for the year. Double this and you have a still more imposing figure.

What does the lumber business mean to Victoria at present? There are nine mills here employing approximately one thousand men in the plants themselves and something like 400 men in the woods. This activity accounts for a payroll of approximately $1,250,000 annually as far as the city is concerned and approximately $480,000 as far as the woods are concerned. In addition to these mills, moreover, there are four logging companies with head offices in Victoria, cutting logs at Cowichan Lake and employing some 420 men; and very naturally they buy an immense quantity of material locally for their camps. Then there are four towing companies located in this city with a fleet of more than a score of tugs employing in the neighborhood of one hundred men. That payroll works out at nearly $150,000 a year and the investment represents more than $500,000. There are also numerous other tug boats, those owned by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and other companies which make Victoria their home port and are engaged in towing logs or scows of lumber.

This is only part of the business. There are the wholesale houses, employing hundreds of workers, who supply these various mills with material and also ship large quantities of supplies to the logging-camps engaged in taking out logs for these mills; the hardware stores; wholesale drygoods stores supplying working apparel, shoes, etc., for the loggers; the machinery companies employed in repairing and making new machinery; boiler makers; mattress manufacturers; stage lines carrying hundreds of men to and from the woods; railroad companies transporting supplies—many thousands of men and women employed directly or indirectly in the lumber business tributary to Victoria.

Many interests in Australia are opposed to the treaty because they believe Canada is getting the best of the bargain—it is at least three to one in dollars in our favor. The arguments which critics in Canada use against the arrangement are seized upon by them with avidity and used to support their plea for its abrogation. The treaty is in peril. Should it be killed; this province's great investments in paper plants would be seriously jeopardized, the new market in Australia for our fish would be virtually closed, while a great opportunity to increase our lumber industry would vanish for ever and port development here would be seriously retarded. Mark well—the Opposition in the House of Commons at Ottawa is opposed to the treaty. Victoria now has an opportunity to add another voice in support of it—in her own interest.

A DIFFERENT STORY NOW

NOW THAT THE COLONIST HAS HAD an opportunity of studying afresh the finances of this province we note it has discovered that the public debt is less than half the amount opponents of the late government put it at before the recent provincial election.

It will be recalled that these critics, some of whom are members of the new government, persistently argued that the taxpayers of the province had been saddled with obligations amounting to between $120,000,000 and $125,000,000. They seldom quoted the liability at less than $100,000,000. This is what The Colonist says now:

According to the methods of provincial finance the net debt is ascertained by deducting from the gross amount the total of the sinking funds on hand and that portion of the debt which represents an investment (within restricted areas or for specific purposes) which is productive of a direct cash return from the beneficiaries of the undertaking. Thus, what is known as the productive debt of British Columbia stood, on September 1 last, at $17,320,367. The amount of sinking funds was $17,320,364.40, and these two amounts, totaling $34,640,731.40, if deducted from the total gross debt, leave a net debt of $49,543,351.40 on September 1 last.

"According to the methods of provincial finance!" The methods of provincial finance which the late Government adopted are the methods which drew from Mr. E. R. Peacock, a director of the Bank of England and a financial expert of international renown, this remark: "The province of British Columbia has been most fortunate in the way its finances have been handled in the last decade." And we venture to suggest that if the Tolmie Government departs from those methods, the best interests of the taxpayers will be in jeopardy.

In respect of the debt, however, we predict that it will be increased in the next twelve months and that it will be very much larger than it is now when the time comes for the Tolmie Government to give an account of its stewardship to the electors of the province.

THE STORMY PETREL IN WRONG

ALTHOUGH HE MAY LIKE TO BELIEVE that the majority of the people take him as seriously as he takes himself, Mr. A. J. Cook, the fiery secretary of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, is still somewhat of a nuisance to many of his colleagues and a bit of a hindrance to the cause of more cordial relations between employer and employee in the Old Country.

There is an indication now, however, that Mr. Cook has been playing fast and loose with the interests of the rank and file of the trade union members who find the money to provide him with his annual salary. A dispatch from London tells us that "astounding revelations have been made that he had been willing to consent to a reduction of wages in the mines and to co-operation between the workers and mine owners." Apparently he had entered into this arrangement with the Government, but failed to bring its terms to the attention of his own executive, repudiating them clandestinely and obliging the Baldwin Ministry to proceed with the measure dealing with the hours of labor in the mines.

These revelations obviously put Mr. Cook in an exceedingly awkward position, since at the very time he was conducting his negotiations he was vehemently denouncing the owners and publicly refusing to make any approach towards a settlement of the problems which then were perplexing them and the country as a whole. But the fiery leader can be impeached or otherwise dealt with only by a national conference of miners' delegates, and it now is proposed that this course be taken and that he be properly tried by his "employers."

We may be sure the people of Britain will watch the developments of this case with considerable interest. The fortunes of the Labor Party at the general election next year may be influenced in no small degree by the treatment which the Miners' Federation may find it advisable to hand out to Mr. Cook. He is an unblinking disciple of Moscow and would get little sympathy from the general public if his impeachment should take the form of his removal from the office he now holds.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

PROTECTION AT LEVEL CROSSINGS

The Saint John Telegraph-Journal

Hon. H. A. McKeown, chairman of the Railway Commission, (states) that the Commission is now seeking the appointment of an official inspector of all crossings who would report to the board with a view to its taking the initiative in securing protection for the public. . . . Public sentiment should demand the elimination of, or reasonably adequate public protection at every level crossing, and the announcement made by the chairman of the Railway Commission gives universal satisfaction.

Spades are trumps and South has the lead. North and South must win all three tricks, against a perfect defence.

Let the cards on the table as shown in the diagram. Study each hand and figure out how you would solve this puzzle; then look at the solution and see if you have done it right. There is only one way in which North and South can take all three tricks. Can you find it? Solution to-morrow.

SOLUTION TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

In this problem the solution is reached by discarding on an opponent's trick, rather than trumping it. South leads the club, which West wins. North discards a diamond. West now wins the second trick with the ace of diamonds, and then leads another diamond, which North trumps with the deuce. North now wins the last two tricks with his high trumps. But if West leads a trump at either the second or third trick, North wins his king or eight, then leads trumps twice.

It would appear in this problem that North should trump the opening lead of clubs. If he trumps the deuce, however, East will overtrump, then East and West will win two diamond tricks. If he trumps with the eight, East and West will later win a trump trick, as well as the two diamonds.

COST OF BREAD

To the Editor:—I am grateful (among with many others I feel sure) for your leading article on "Cost of Bread" in Monday's October 29 paper. This, however, is scarcely a correct heading. "Price charged us for bread" would have been a more suitable heading, as cost price seems to be forgotten. I have also bought bread in London lately at similar prices four pounds for 18 cents or 9d.

The Chamber of Commerce is making a drive for members, and if I am asked to join, I shall tell them to look after our interests first and get bread reduced in price.

Theft Charge Trial Ends in Acquittal

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—Alexander Swanson, manager of the Pacific Motors Limited, was acquitted yesterday afternoon of the first of four theft charges on which he had been indicted at the present assizes. Trial of the second charge of a similar nature was begun this morning.

In the first case the evidence was that Swanson had obtained $3,188 from the Continental Guarantee Corporation to finance the purchase of five cars from the Overland Sales Service. According to the prosecution, Swanson did not pay over the money to the Overland people and acquire possession of the cars, on which he had given a bill of sale to the finance firm of security for the $3,188. The defence advanced by Gordon S. Wismer, his counsel, was that only a few days had elapsed when Swanson was arrested and he had not had time to complete the transaction. The jury was out only fifteen minutes.

REED SPEAKING AGAINST HOOVER

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 1.—Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, Democrat, speaking here last night, asserted that Herbert Hoover, Republican United States Presidential nominee, was "subservient" to the British Government, duping and after the World War.

Senator Reed said that after the war, when more than 2,000,000 United States soldiers were in Europe waiting to go home, Hoover attempted to place control of United States ships and trade in British hands.

EXTRADITION ARGUMENT

Calgary, Nov. 1.—Whether or not the order making possible the extradition of Mrs. Sarah Louisa Northcott from Calgary to Riverside, Cal., to answer a charge of murder will be upheld, will be known Saturday as the result of an application for a writ of habeas corpus made by McKinley Cameron, K.C., before Mr. Justice Tweedy here yesterday. The writ is returnable Saturday, before any judge of the Alberta Supreme Court who may be sitting on that day.

NEW SETTLERS

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—With harvesting operations on the prairies completed and with 5,000 British harvesters still remaining in Canada, it is probable the majority will become permanently established. Department of Immigration officials state. Reports from steamship companies to the department indicate approximately 3,500 have returned to the British Isles. From the fact that very few of the harvesters have applied at Government employment bureaus, officials of the Labor Department believe that the majority of cases they have found permanent work on prairie farms.

Los Angeles, Nov. 1.—Fines of $5,000 each were imposed yesterday upon L. R. Longnecker and Joseph W. Garay for violation of the Corporate Securities Act. They were convicted in Superior Court recently in connection with the illegal sale of more than $5,000,000 in stock of the Four Aces Mining Company, which they incorporated in Nevada. Suspended prison sentences of one to ten years each also were imposed.

The convicted men were ordered to return to the company $50,000 in cash and stocks which were found in their possession.

HILLCLIMBERS GETTING READY

Motorcyclists Prepare Course For Thanksgiving Day Event

Those who went their way out to Mount Douglas on Thanksgiving Day to look over the motorcycle boys in their daring hill climb feats, will be afforded every opportunity to get a good view of the climb, according to officials of the Motorcycle Club.

For the last several weeks now the members of the club have been at work putting the hill in first-class shape for their big event and if several records are not smashed, it will not be the fault of the course, they claim.

CLEARED AND ROLLED

The hill is now cleared and rolled for a distance of three hundred feet from the first dip and it is hoped the rain will keep it packed down sufficiently to give the bikes a fair hold. The record set last year by Joe Wheeler of 100 feet will in all probability be bettered owing to the better nature of the hill, it is thought. On Wheeler's highest ride, he was only stopped by brush and soft ground near the top.

TEN ENTERED

The intending riders, who number about ten up to the present time, have been busy with their machines and are experimenting with special gearing, track fuels and skid chains. Owen Fowler will again be the climb referee this year with J. McAllister as announcer.

ARMISTICE DAY MEDALS ISSUED

London, Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press Cable).—To commemorate the tenth anniversary of the Armistice on November 11, the British Mint has struck a special medal for public issue. It is obtainable at the mint in silver and bronze at $7.50 for a large silver one, $2.50 for a large bronze one and forty-two cents for small bronze ones.

On the face of the medal is the figure of Britannia supporting a young warrior with sheathed sword and the broken shackles of war, offering a wreath of laurels to the memory of the fallen. The reverse shows the London Cenotaph surrounded by the inscription, "Their Name Liveth For evermore."

MINE WAGE DISPUTE

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—Hon. Peter Heenan probably will make a personal investigation of the wage dispute between miners and operators in the coal fields at Wayne and Drumheller, Alta. Mr. Heenan yesterday conferred with Frank Wheatley, president of the United Mine Workers of Canada. So many different viewpoints had been presented, the Minister of Labor said, that as a result of the conference he had decided he might have to visit the field himself. When Mr. Heenan will leave for the West has not yet been decided.

Hallowe'en In Vancouver Was Very Mild Event

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—Hallowe'en is past and the fears entertained by many of the citizens of Vancouver that they would be the subjects of serious pranks on the part of the celebrators proved groundless, for, according to police reports, the 1928 Hallowe'en was the mildest on record.

Of course there were a few instances where youthful spirits overstepped the bounds of wisdom, to-wit, one instance where youngsters meddled with arc lights in the east end of the city, a prank which resulted in one of the number spending the night in the juvenile detention home.

FALSE FIRE CRIES

One gang of youngsters played a serious kind of joke when they ran through a west end apartment house calling "Fire," the youngsters breaking the glass in a door during their exit. Only one accident was reported, that being the case of Frances Head, aged six, of Nootka Street, who was burned about one leg when a firecracker thrown by a playmate caught in her overalls and exploded. Her injuries are not serious.

Throughout this morning the usual number of calls for missing gaiters, caps, garden gates and other portable articles missing from their customary places, were received.

Landplanes vs. Seaplanes

By "AVIATOR"

A perusal of Mr. Sydney Pickles' entertaining views on the subject of commercial aviation always makes me wonder when some humane institution is going to send the local prophet of the seaplane to Europe to persuade the governments of Great Britain, Holland, France, and Germany to legislate against the pernicious habit of flying landplanes across a "dangerous" stretch of water (the English Channel). The experts of the Imperial Airways, the French Air Union, the Royal Dutch Air Lines and the Deutsche Luft Hansa are, of course, very busy men, concerned with fact, as scientists must be, but they might spare a few minutes to listen to Mr. Pickles, for surely, a little humor now and then is good for scientists to enjoy.

This, of course, is speaking harshly of Mr. Pickles, but since he has chosen to direct a number of entirely unselected verbal assaults at me, surely he will not object to taking some of his own medicine. He must remember that I did not mention his name in my humble article; that I did not hurl any personalities at him, and that I did not seek controversy with him. It is he who has chosen to attack me. And if he elects to hurl a choice handful of muddy opprobrium in my direction incidentally, he must not expect to be handed a stick of toothsome candy in return. Mr. Pickles it was who chose to introduce personalities into what should have been a purely academic discussion. In the vernacular, Mr. Pickles has "asked for it."

You say, Mr. Pickles, that it seems extraordinary to you that I should have chosen to write under a "nom de plume." Of course it seems extraordinary to you, Mr. Pickles. Attempting to reason from the particular to the general is a familiar aberration of your logical processes. Thus, contemplating yourself, evidently you think that all people crave personal publicity. But you are wrong. Many do not. The abnormal craving for publicity is said to be a complex characteristic of the "flapper" or "jazz" era. In myself I can find no trace of that complex. But I have seen your name in print so many times and with real justification so many times, that I find it extremely easy to believe you would find it extraordinary that another person would have a modest anonymity. But, then, of what use to discuss modesty in this article?

No doubt you would like to point a finger of scorn at the absence of pompous letters after my name. I will admit that absence, but not apologetic-ally. I know sufficient of aviation to be not the least bit impressed by your "Associated Fellow of the Royal Aeronautical Society." (By the way, there are two classes of membership in that honored body, are there not? I would suggest that "Fellow" would be a little more impressive than "Associate Fellow.") Nor am I vastly impressed by the fact that you hold two kinds of licenses from the Canadian Government. Other men licensed by the Canadian Government—the experts, themselves, of the Canadian Government—appear to disagree with your views. I appear to disagree with your views. I appear to be impressed by the decorative tail to your name if what you said indicated possession of a surer reasoning power and wider and more up-to-date knowledge. As it is, you might add P.H.S. to those letters if you matriculated from Paddington High School, or V.A.G. since you are secretary of the Victoria Aero Club, without awing me in the slightest.

By your own statement to a Victorian whose name I would give were I convinced that he craved personal publicity, you gave up flying in 1919, and, since you had renounced aviation as a career, took but little interest in it until this year, when you became secretary of the local aero club. Much water has flown under the bridges since 1919, Mr. Pickles. Much has been learned about aviation since then. You may, however, soon be an "expert" in the latest developments if you apply yourself to the task with as much fierce and unrelenting industry as you have shown in attempting to establish that the B.C. Airways were a flock of negligent dunderheads.

I did not name you when I said that the B.C. Airways had been subjected to unfair, unsporting criticism. But apparently you decided that the cap fitted. And to give arresting proof that you did, you provided a glaring example of unfairness. You likened me to a criminal lawyer trying to convince a reluctant jury of the innocence of an "obviously guilty" defendant. You intended that as a slur on "Aviator." You apparently think that "criminal lawyer" is a term of disparagement. Thus, in your use of the term, the slur is cast upon the legal profession. It is not for me to presume to champion the legal profession. But it would be timely to defend the B.C. Airways. For this is what you have done. Mr. Pickles, in your use of the terms "criminal lawyer," "jury," "guilty" person—you have evoked a train of associated ideas that, does damage to the B.C. Airways. In the mind of your readers you have conjured up a mental picture of a courtroom in which, by the suggestion inherent in your words, the B.C. Airways play the role of guilty prisoner. I that of the criminal lawyer. That was a pretty picture. Mr. Pickles' "Guilty" of what? Seven lives were lost in the B.C. Airways' plane. Is that what you meant by "guilty"? That was what your words suggested to me—and to others—and that is what I call unfair, unsporting, un-British.

If you did not mean that, you were still unsporting because a sportsman would be careful when a careless word might do vile injury to others.

This is chiefly why I am giving you some of your own medicine. It would be distasteful to me to have my name involved with yours in public controversy. I do not desire publicity. Therefore I preserve anonymity. The weight and usefulness of what I say I leave to depend entirely on the cogency of my logic and the significance of the facts I present—not on the supposed authority of an "A.F.R. A.E.S." after my name and the ponderous listing of Government licenses.

You say the board of inquiry of the R.C.A.F. recommended seaplanes or amphibians for the Victoria-Seattle-Vancouver route. You did not see a copy of the findings of the board of inquiry. Your authority for your statement is doubtless a newspaper report purporting to be a digest of the findings of the board. That is not official. We know that the press was excluded from the board of inquiry. And a few days later we read a newspaper report in which it was stated that the press had not been excluded. I suppose that you would take the latter as being official.

On the other hand I have seen an official letter from the department at Ottawa setting forth the results of the investigation. The department does not definitely and absolutely does not recommend seaplanes or amphibians. It says "it is not proposed at present to forbid the use of tri-motored planes on the test of the Victoria-Seattle-Vancouver route." You say you find this difficult to understand. You would. You apparently find it difficult to understand anything that conflicts with your set and preconceived notions. You say the "qualification" at present indicates decided uncertainty on the point. How preposterous! Do you seriously believe that the experts of the Royal Canadian Air Force (and these are real experts, not entirely self-styled "experts") the jury of the board was composed of men who flew during the war and have been flying ever since) would permit the B.C. Airways to use a tri-motored land plane if the employment of such equipment were even the least bit dangerous? It is the function of the department to insure that safe machines be used in Canada. Are you now suggesting that these officials are remiss in their duty—principally because you happen to disagree with their views? If this is not the fifty-seventh variety of nonsense, Mr. Pickles, what have you yet in store for us?

You say no reputable modern seaplane has any trouble in taking off from smooth water. It is pertinent to ask what you know of modern seaplanes. I am told by men who have been flying reputable and modern seaplanes since the war that they do have trouble and often very great trouble. But you say they don't—so probably further words on this point would be futile. Do you know anything about the difficulty of landing on smooth water? Mr. Pickles! Have you ever heard of seaplanes crashing because pilots could not tell just how high they were from the water? Have you seen a glassy water when they flattened out to land? No probably you haven't.

And still you talk of seaplanes landing when encountering fog. Still you talk blithely of this in spite of the fact that four accidents very recently have demonstrated the impossibility of distinguishing the surface of the water from fog.

Of course you will not admit that the B.C. Airways' accident was due to the inability of the pilot to tell fog from water. It does not suit your purpose. Of course you will not admit the pilot could have turned back and landed safely at Victoria. Would it suit your purpose to suggest that there was something wrong with the machine? But we know that the pilot continued to fly into the fog after meeting it, instead of turning back. He was seen in Washington Harbor. The cry of "unsporting" is strange from your lips, Mr. Pickles. It would be much more pleasant for me to be able to say that the pilot had obeyed the company's orders and turned back as soon as he met the fog. An accident has happened and lives have been lost. I, as you yourself profess to be doing, am trying to contribute my bit towards the prevention of future accidents. If a railway train is wrecked because of the error of an engineer, the railway knows that it is in the interest of neither traveling public nor the company, itself, to ascribe the accident to an inexplicable act of God. It takes steps to see that such an accident does not happen again.

To say that three Short "Calcuttas" have been ordered does not mean that three Short "Calcuttas" have been built. One has been built and two more ordered. My point was that the machine had not been proved by hundreds of thousands of miles of test flying as was the Ford machine during a period of years before Ford allowed it to be sold. The first "Calcutta" was to have been tested on the Southampton-Channel Islands run before being placed on the India route, for which it was designed. Last month the Imperial Airways were still testing the machine before, I believe, placing it on the Channel Islands route. Sir Sir Gedeon, chairman of the company, was flying around the coast of Scotland in the big flying boat last month with a party of friends and relatives.

Probably the "Calcutta" is a very excellent machine. Most British machines are. But again you evade the issue, Mr. Pickles. The point that you fail to meet squarely is that you could not buy this machine and operate it successfully on the B.C. Airways' route without a subsidy from the Government.

Your proposal that seaplanes land on boggy marshes and swamps is one that I will commend to any flying man in need of a good, hearty laugh—but not to a commercial aviation company with the lives of passengers in their care. Again, Mr. Pickles, you are unfair in your description of the Seattle-Victoria airmail service and your implied comparison with the B.C. Airways' service. The airmail service, the late Mr. Walker said, necessitated an average of fifteen trips a month. The B.C. Airways' service necessitated ninety trips a month. You say the Seattle airmail planes have carried a large number of passengers. On the contrary, they have carried very few. Not more than 150 in the eight years of operation. On the other hand, the B.C. Airways' plane carried more than 1,000 in one month.

But all this is unimportant. It proves nothing, establishes nothing. Still, I cannot stand tranquilly by and watch the general public being misled without making some attempt to remedy the situation. Mr. Pickles has described a series of accidents to seaplanes, minimizing their number, by the way. What does that prove? That a tri-motored landplane is unsuitable for the Victoria-Seattle route? Or that seaplanes are always safe? It hardly seems to be flattering to the seaplane, to my mind. I could tell you, Mr. Pickles, of four seaplane crashes in Manitoba in 1926, if you want material to bolster your argument. That it is. (Probably the pilots of those four seaplanes could not find any convenient boggy marshes or swamps, you know.)

What do you know of driftwood as seen from the air, Mr. Pickles? Driftwood does not abound in the English Channel as it does in the Strait of Juan de Fuca. There are no logging camps along the shores of the English Channel. Compare our beaches with the English beaches, picked clean of all possible firewood. Then what is your experience when you were tooling about the English Channel during the Scene: In the Bapco Laboratory.

Sam: "Isn't this the age of speed, Mr. Bapco?"

Bapco Chemist: "Well?"

Sam: "When folks refinish their homes they like them to dry quickly."

Bapco: "Yes."

Sam: "These same folks like Satin-Glo—it's easy to use, easy to keep clean, and they know it's dependable."

Bapco: "Well, what more do you want?"

Sam: "Make me a quicker drying, transparent finish for 1929, worthy of the name of Satin-Glo—a finish that people can use on floors, linoleum, oilcloth, furniture or woodwork at night, and be sure it will dry hard enough even to walk on by morning—that's what these folks are waiting for."

Bapco: "Leave it to me, Sam, and I'll see you get your wish."

LATER

Sam: "Is that Quick Drying Satin-Glo ready, Mr. Bapco?"

Bapco: "It's ready, Sam, but must be thoroughly tested to Satin-Glo standards before you can have it—come back later. After Months of Testing and Experimenting"

Bapco: "Here you are, Sam—the finish your customers have wanted—tested and proven—a finish you can be proud of."

Sam: "Fine! What have you named it?"

Bapco: "Satin-Glo Clear—because it dries with a full, rich, transparent finish."

Sam: "What can I tell folks about it?"

Bapco: "Say that Satin-Glo Clear embodies the finest quality ever put into a finish of this kind—it is waterproof and marproof—it flows on evenly without showing brush marks—and it DRIES IN FOUR HOURS."

Sam: "Where can they use it?"

Bapco: "For all interior surfaces—Floors, Linoleum, Furniture, Woodwork."

Sam: "How will people know it?"

Bapco: "Tell them to ask for Satin-Glo CLEAR in the can with the new Blue label."

Sam: "Thanks, Mr. Bapco. I'll tell them right away."

Woodbine Mine To Air Troubles; Engineer Sues

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—F. J. Crossland, mining engineer, who issued the much-debated Crossland report on the Woodbine, has issued a writ for $10,000 in the Supreme Court here against the Woodbine Gold Mining Company for services rendered.

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—Reports from eight engineers and experts will be presented and discussed, and various troubles of the company quered at a full meeting of shareholders of the Woodbine Gold Mining Company to be held Thursday night, November 1, at the Board of Trade here.

Among the engineers' reports to be presented are Stewart and Batten, E. A. Hagen of Vancouver, B. N. Sharp of Spokane, F. J. Crossland of Vancouver, Reine Collier of Paris, France, B. W. W. McDougall, Malcolm McKenzie and T. L. McLean, the two latter being officials at the mine.

Stewart, B.C., Nov. 1.—Diamond drill crews are busy exploring the Woodbine, and results are reported satisfactory.

GUESS WHO—Know him? Probably not, unless you can place that grin among your movie memories of a few years ago. Yes, it's Jackie Coogan, growing up. This picture was taken in Paris, where his French admirers, almost weep because "Le Goosse" (The Kid) is a young man now.

SPLIT PEA SOUP

As cooler weather approaches our thoughts turn to good soups. One cup dried split peas, 2½ quarts cold water, 1 pint scalded milk, 1 onion, 1 carrot, ½ cup chopped celery, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ¼ pound fat salt pork. Wash and soak peas over night in cold water. Drain and pour over the peas 2½ quarts of water. Heat to boiling point. Add pork, vegetables and salt and simmer for 4 hours. Rub through a strainer and add water. Heat to boiling point. Add pork, enough of the milk to make it the thickness desired; usually all of it will be necessary.

A BEAR-I-TONE?—Driver's zoo has a singing bear. At any rate, an alert photographer snapped the above shot the other day while Bruin was making a noise that resembled High C. Being a bear, it follows that the singer must necessarily be a bear-I-tone.

NEW PLAN FOR U.S. TARIFF

Raskob, Speaking For Democrats, Suggests Limitation of Powers of Congress

New York, Nov. 1. (By George Hamilton, Staff Correspondent of the Canadian Press.) John F. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee and formerly of the General Motors, has another plan to take the United States tariff out of politics and out of the presidential campaign. His scheme, in brief, is a constitutional amendment which would limit the power of Congress in tariff amendments. There would be an independent fact-finding tariff commission with the standing of the United States Supreme Court. The term of office of the commissioners would be at least fifteen years.

TWO-THIRDS VOTES

Under Mr. Raskob's proposed constitutional amendment two-thirds votes in both the Senate and the House of Representatives would be necessary for the institution in Congress of tariff regulations and schedules. Such a provision, Mr. Raskob argues, would prevent "tipper" legislation and encroachments upon the powers of the tariff commission.

PRESENT CAMPAIGN

"With our tariff made in this manner," Mr. Raskob informed a delegation of businessmen, "never again would it be possible for the Republican Party, or any party, to use the tariff as a campaign issue. It would be impossible to have a campaign such as that which is now under way, in which Republican employers throughout the country are inserting in pay envelopes printed matter urging their workers to vote Republican in order to insure prosperity."

Captain Dewar's Return to Service Meets With Favor

London, Nov. 1.—The recent court-martial regarding incidents on the Royal Oak are recalled by the Admiralty, announcement that Captain Kenneth G. B. Dewar, C.B.E., has been appointed to the command of H.M.S. Tiger from November 5. The appointment will be generally approved, for the outcome of the court-martial did not quite satisfy public opinion.

Captain Dewar, with his brother officer, Commander Daniel, was found guilty in April last of acts prejudicial to good order and naval discipline, and was dismissed his ship. Commander Daniel afterwards resigned the service.

The incidents which gave rise to the two trials concerned the attitude and conduct of Rear-Admiral Collard and certain social and other functions on board the Royal Oak. The initial blame rested upon Admiral Collard, who dealt with trivial causes for dissatisfaction in a manner unbecoming his position, and showed himself unfit to hold further high command. The board therefore decided, with regret, in spite of his past good services, to place him on the retired list. The board also decided that the sentences on Captain Dewar and Commander Daniel should not preclude them from further employment in due course, when suitable vacancies should occur.

Captain Dewar, who is forty-nine, has had a distinguished career. He was born near Edinburgh and at the age of fourteen entered H.M.S. Britann

So delightfully refreshing—

"There's naught like a cup of Fry's for refreshment after the shops, my dear," they said in the long ago.

"It does buck one up" — "Just the thing after a hard day or a strenuous game," they say today.

Such have been the comments on Fry's Cocoa for two centuries — from women in many countries — in cottage and castle — in old lands and new.

The wonderful sustaining qualities of this famous beverage come from skillful preparation of the choicest beans. Its taste-tempting flavour is the result of 200 years of "knowing how."

Have you a tin of FRY'S in the house, now? Every dealer sells it. Look for the familiar FRY yellow label—it is a guarantee of the utmost purity and value in Cocoa.

LADY NORTHESK HOUSE HUNTING

Former American Dancer
Plans For Marriage Before
New Year

London, Eng., Nov. 1.—The Countess of Northesk, formerly Jessica Brown, American dancer, is to be married to Vivian Cornelius, son of Percy Cornelius of Witleham, Surrey. The countess recently divorced Lord Northesk in Scotland on grounds of misconduct.

Telling of her future plans to the Associated Press correspondent in her apartment in Brook Street, Mayfair, with her future husband present, the countess said:

"We shall be married in London before the New Year and after our honeymoon in Switzerland or Egypt shall reside here. I am waiting to hear when my mother, Mrs. A. W. Starks of Buffalo, can arrive for the wedding, before fixing the date.

"Just now we are house hunting. I sold my London house last year and all my furniture is in storage, but I hope to have my new home settled before the wedding.

TERIBLY HAPPY

"As for my engagement there is nothing to say except that I am terribly happy. I have known Mr. Cornelius for about two years; we met in London through mutual friends. He is a very great friend of Lord Northesk; in fact we are all three great friends. But I don't know Miss Joyce." (A reference to the report that the Earl of Northesk was engaged to Peggy Hopkings Joyce.)

Lady Northesk reiterated her determination never again to appear on the stage.

"I believe that once you retire, you should remain retired," she said, "I love England and would rather live here than anywhere in the world."

She refused to comment on the statement attributed to Lord Northesk that American wives want to rule the home, whereas in England the man is head of the household, remarking:

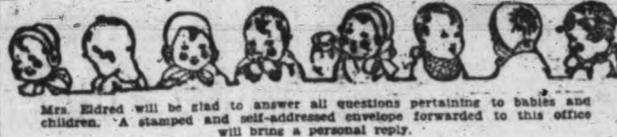

"I don't want to say anything that would hurt him or spoil the friendship of us three."

She was perfectly willing, she added, to relegate the role of head of the house to her husband, but was quite undismayed at marrying another Englishman.

"I might have married anybody," she

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

SOME EXPRESSIONS FROM OUR READERS.

Mrs. M. H. S. writes:

"Although I have no children, I never miss reading all I can about them and a letter in your column interested me. It was relative to what a child should say to indicate his or her needs, and I think a girl friend of mine used the most sensible word I have ever heard. She taught her young son to say: 'Attention, Mother.'"

"And he learned it very quickly. It was cunning to hear him say: 'Attention, Mother.'"

And now at twenty months he says: 'I need attention.' This seems less embarrassing than most words."

ANSWER

Yes, I think that an excellent thing to say, for primarily it has meaning, and most of the silly words haven't."

"So many times I have been tempted to write you when I have read some particularly good article but after reading 'Rubber Pants,' I could keep still no longer. If only ignorant mothers would read your articles—but they are the ones who never do, and when they are told they are offended."

"I have no problems of my own, for my two girls, twelve and fourteen, were reared along the lines you advocate, with a lot of discouragement from kind friends and relatives. They seldom cried, and at one month they seldom soiled a napkin for I found out at what time they had a natural movement and put them on a jar at that time. At nine months they used their chairs regularly, for with regular habits, they needed this attention regularly too. They never had cathartics (good for you)—but were given orange juice and vegetable juices."

"They slept out of doors four and five hours a day (though my neighbors called me cruel)—and I neglected my housework, because I couldn't do justice to both babies and housework."

"How can a mother allow a child to run around wet for hours and then spank him for failing to tell her? I think you are doing a wonderful work and I have several young friends who need advice and who read your articles and have lovely children in consequence. Perhaps you won't think me for this letter, but I couldn't help writing to tell you how much your advice does mean to young mothers who want to do rightly and don't know how."

ANSWER

And you said I wouldn't thank you for your letter? I thought it simply marvelous and I felt as if I were reading a "testimonial" that had nothing to do with me. Your letter, I hope, will be an inspiration not only to me, but to some young struggling mothers who may think the patience and effort directed toward early training not worth while."

SQUIRES IS TO BE PREMIER

Newfoundland Election Returns Give His Party Large Majority in House

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 1.—With a decisive vote of confidence from the people of Newfoundland, Sir Richard Squires, who retired as Premier in 1923 after a royal commission had found irregularities in his administration, faced the country this morning with twenty-two supporters elected in the general election of Monday last against ten members of the opposition party led by Hon. F. C. Alderdyce. Only five of the total of thirty-seven constituencies remained to be heard from, and the final result was merely a question of the opposition's size.

MINISTERS DEFEATED

The triumphant return of the Squires party was featured by the downfall of Hon. W. S. Monro, Minister of Agriculture, Hon. W. H. Burt, Minister of Justice, Hon. W. H. Howley, Minister of Education, Hon. S. J. Poole, Minister of Finance and Customs.

Sir Richard Squires was elected in St. John's with a decisive majority, and Mr. Alderdyce was returned in St. John's City East.

Sir William F. Coaker, leader of the Fishermen's Protective Union, which was allied with the Squires forces, was returned in Bonaville East, and Peter J. Cashin, son of the late Sir Michael Cashin, former Premier, won in Perry Head.

The administration of Hon. F. C. Alderdyce was sworn in on August 16 last, following the resignation of the Monro Government.

Cold Wave In U.S. Middle West

Kansas City, Kas., Nov. 1.—Wintry winds bringing lower temperatures, snow and rain, swept November into the Middle West today as the second Rocky Mountain blizzard of the season whipped over the central prairies. Heavy snow, which blanketed the Rocky Mountain region, halted air mail traffic, made highways nearly impassable and threatened rail transportation there.

GAVE BOND

Keyes himself was not to be molested by warrants, his appearance to the charges being upon his own recognizance.

Bail for each of the others named in the indictments was set at $50,000, and they were ordered to be held in custody until their arraignment at 10 o'clock this morning.

It was intimated by authorities that Keyes would be summarily removed from office by Attorney General U. S. Webb of Sacramento, pending his trial. It was expected Webb would act shortly.

The starting action of the grand jury broke dramatically, for it was hardly forty-eight hours before that the grand jury's direct charges against the veteran prosecutor, Keyes, for a quarter of a century had been a figure in the district attorney's office, had heard the grand jury proclaim them guilty of using the mails to defraud in the promotion of their watered stock corporation.

More piercing charges against the grand jury's direct charges against the veteran prosecutor, Keyes, for a quarter of a century had been a figure in the district attorney's office, had heard the grand jury proclaim them guilty of using the mails to defraud in the promotion of their watered stock corporation.

The grand jury also charged the district attorney with conspiracy to defraud, admitting he had learned of the quarts of whiskey in an automobile driven by him on July 6, 1926.

The grand jury's charges, the district attorney protested last night that "there apparently was never any effort made to get anything but the statements of

Bank Branch Charge In Terminal City

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—Announcement that Grange V. Holt, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here for thirteen years, will retire shortly was made this morning.

M. W. Morton, formerly manager of the Bank of Hamilton here and recently inspector of Broome's Columbia division of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, will succeed him.

Ontario College Student Missing

London, Ont., Nov. 1.—No word has been received regarding the son of Ralph McKay, missing Western Ontario University student, by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McKay of Regina, who came here to lead the search for the young man. Friends believe he suffered a loss of memory brought on by over-work.

The boy's father has issued a large number of police circulars, which to date have been sent out to Canadian and United States cities.

a father and stepmother and several brothers, all living in England. The boy died ten minutes after he had been hit.

Moore, who is fifty-five years old, lives with his wife in this village. He was the only one who had been putting together details of the tragedy when that eight of them started out last night for Halloween fun. In the past, Moore had always been one of their victims, as they "got his goat" easily.

Accordingly, they repaired to Moore's home, where everything possible was done to prevent the tragedy. As soon as he appeared, one of the youngsters threw a wooden stick at him, and, raising a 22-calibre rifle he had under his arm, Moore is alleged to have fired a shot. Evidently the gun was loaded with birdshot and the bullet struck Moore in the right shoulder, but it was only a flesh wound and the boys retired to safety. They played pranks on their neighbours and on the route home again stopped in front of Moore's place and again banged at his door.

DECEASED BY MAN

Moore, to use his own words, thoroughly exasperated, opened the door and saw the boys on the sidewalk, fired in their direction, apparently wildly, as the boys continued with their annoying acts. Moore then went into the house and locked the door. The bullet hit his hand just above the wrist, and the blade caused an internal hemorrhage.

"They made me mad, especially when one of them hit me with a step, and then they came in and tried to frighten them," said Moore after he had been arrested.

GERMANS GIVE OCEAN AIRSHIP BIG WELCOME

RUSHED TO FIELD

Thousands of spectators even refused to budge from the aerodrome although their feet were soaked with dew. When the Graf Zeppelin approached, those who had remained in the cafe and restaurants rushed to the aerodrome by every conceivable means of locomotion, probably the oddest being a baby carriage in which sat two men from the United States and Germany.

The vehicle was hitched to an old automobile.

The police had taken what appeared to be careful precautions to keep off the crowds from the landing field, but no sooner had the gondolas touched the ground than the jubilant mob broke through and upset all the police calculations.

When the command was given to take the ship into the hanger, the crowd marched along and helped pull.

Theodore van Huizen, Minister of Transportation, was the first to enter the main gondola after the airship had landed. He congratulated Dr. Eckener, the commander. He was followed by Franz Eckener and other officials, including John E. Kohl, United States consul at Stuttgart.

"I am rejoiced to be able to be present at this most wonderful reception of the Zeppelin by the people of Friedrichshafen," Mr. Kohl said. "The voyage was a marvelous feat and established a new link between the United States and Germany and constituted a new link between the German and American people."

Dr. Eckener for a long time remained invisible and when he did emerge from the great airship he was greeted with thunderous cheers. He had great difficulty in making his way through the crowd and eventually he was helped by the police.

Meanwhile, Captains Lehmann and Fleming superintended the unloading of the mail and baggage. When customs officials mounted the gangway there were derisive yells by the crowd, which evidently thought all formalities should have been waived, but when they emerged only five minutes later they were greeted with cheers.

After the departure of the crew and passengers, all of whom declared they must first have a long sleep, the crowd slowly and reluctantly dispersed.

The passengers went to a hotel in Friedrichshafen, where they had breakfast.

The twenty passengers included only one woman, Mrs. Claire Adams, of Tennessee, Pennsylvania. The tickets cost $3,000 each.

The crew numbered forty.

REVENUE OF VOYAGE

New York, Nov. 1.—The revenue earned by the dirigible Graf Zeppelin on its German-United States round trip was estimated to-day at $343,000. That part of this profit is uncertain.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, estimated the expenses of the round trip would be $100,000, but repairs to the damaged fin undoubtedly raised this considerably. The mail carried on the return voyage included 49,754 letters and 51,938 postcards; the most valuable mail cargo in point of postage ever handled by air.

ASSIZE TRIAL AT NANAIMO FOLLOWS AQUARIAN HEARING

VOLUNTARY SUBSCRIPTION

The first witness to-day was Maurice Von Platen and in his evidence he stated, in answer to a question by the prosecuting attorney, that the organization was carried on by voluntary monthly donations by outside members. He himself having donated $1,000 a month before he was made a governor.

Mrs. Connelly stated she had met Wilson in Toronto and from arrangement made there had sent him a bank draft made out to the Aquarian Foundation, but for him to use in any shape or form he might see fit. She also admitted a sworn declaration, one of the exhibits in court, to have been sent by her. But this was not sworn to and sent until the month after the draft for $23,000 had been received, therefore the foundation claims this draft to be its money.

IDEALS OF ORGANIZATION

Counsel asked the witness in what way Wilson had intended to use the money. Mr. Connelly replied that $10,000 was to be used either as a loan or a gift, whichever Wilson saw fit, for the Aquarian Foundation, $8,000 could go in time of trouble and $5,000 to be invested at six per cent. for his personal use. This latter suggestion, he claimed, to be her own suggestion.

Mr. Morton, prosecuting counsel, asked her what were the ideas or ideals of the organization.

Witness—The betterment of humanity.

Mr. Morton asked if the witness had thought Wilson had intended to gamble or use the money for immoral purposes, whether she would have given it to him under the same conditions.

The witness answered that, knowing Brother XII, as she did, and having read his books, she knew he would not gamble with this money. As to immoral purposes or immorality, she would give a definition, she said.

COUNSEL OBJECTS

F. S. Cunliffe, defence counsel, objected to the latter part of Mr. Morton's question.

The witness said she was bearing patiently with the examination, but she felt this was not what she was there for. She had traveled a long way to give evidence, which she had had to make Wilson her sole trustee of this money to use in any shape or form he deemed fit.

Mr. Cunliffe, addressing the court, said the defence evidence showed how and why this money had been used. There had been no theft, and there was no case to meet, he said, and he asked the court to dismiss.

NOT COMPLETE

Mr. Morton declared the evidence was not complete. He said the money had been intended for the Aquarian Foundation, the main defence witness, Beaver-Potts, summing up, said there were certain difficult angles to the case. Unfortunately the sworn declaration of the main defence witness had not come with the draft and he felt, taking everything into consideration, that he was justified in binding the accused to answer any charge which might be laid.

SECURITIES ARGUMENT

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—As he was in court at Nanaimo, Edward G. Gaskin, a local lawyer, applied here to-day for a dissolution of Mr. Justice Gregory's injunction, which enjoined him at the suit of Maurice von Platen, Robert de la Roche and Alexander Lucas from dealing with the securities and assets of the Aquarian Foundation.

expected Wilson's counsel will launch an application next week to have the order set aside.

FAIR SPEECH IS HEARD BY MANY

ous units. To know one's self was essential; to know one's country was a patriotic duty; to know the Empire was a great and profitable advantage.

The Minister made passing reference to the arrival in Canada of Premier King's after his two-month sojourn in Europe, and expressed his appreciation of the reception tendered him in Great Britain.

INTEREST INCREASED

The Cardiff exhibition, said Mr. Molloy, was only one of the many indications of the rapidly increasing interest manifested in all parts of the Empire in the promotion of trade between its self-governing parts.

He mentioned the effective demonstration of the Empire Marketing Board at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, and declared that part of the exposition had attracted more people than that dignified and impressive exhibit.

COAL FROM WALES

The Minister also pointed out to his hearers there were opportunities for a substantial increase of Welsh anthracite coal imports in Eastern Canada, where excellence was being more and more generally recognized.

The imports of British goods to the United Kingdom were also becoming large. The balance would appear to be in favor of Canada, but as British grain merchants were re-exporting large quantities of cereals purchased in Canada, the assumption figures would more nearly agree.

NEW SETTLERS

"The question of migration within the Empire has been much to the fore in recent months," said Mr. Malcolm. "While calling your attention to the speech delivered by our Prime Minister recently in London, in the course of which he declared that Canada, and with the opportunities Canada affords—opportunities which have never been greater than to-day. In the year 1922 we received and welcomed 627 Welsh immigrants. This year we are receiving over 500 every month. If an Empire problem exists on this question of migration, may I say for the Government and the people of Canada that none are more welcome in this Dominion than the sons and daughters of the British Isles."

PRINCE IS AMBASSADOR

The Minister concluded with a reference to the Prince of Wales, whom Canada claimed as "a landed proprietor and taxpayer of this Dominion." The Prince was "a great ambassador of Empire, representative of all our common traditions, common history and common ideals for a united Empire." The Prince was a joint possession.

Mr. Malcolm closed with a wish that the Cardiff Empire Exhibition might meet with unprecedented success.

NEW FACES TO APPEAR WITH YANKEES IN 1929

Miller Huggins Will Attempt to Strengthen Weak Spots; Champs Want Pitchers

Meusel, Dugan, Durst, Koenig, Gazella, Robertson, Paschal and Others on Market

The New York Yankees will be at least slightly altered and perhaps generally remodelled before another season opens, it may be gathered from a remark made by Miller Huggins after his club had cleaned up its second world series in straight games.

The small manager of the world's champions, a team that seemed to prove itself again as one of the greatest of all times, was asked by an American League official if he had any players on the market.

"The whole ball club with the exception of eight," he replied.

The eight he is said to have mentioned are Ruth, Gehrig, Lazzeri, Combs, Hoyt, Phipps, Pennington and Johnson.

STARS ON MARKET

By a process of elimination this would place on the market Meusel, Dugan, Durst, Koenig, Gazella, Robertson, Paschal, Collins, Bengough, Grabowski and the rest of the pitchers.

In admitting their intention to make numerous changes in the club, Yankees officials made it clear they were not acceding to the roar of the outlands demanding that the team be busted right open so that the other teams would have a chance. And it was mindful of a situation last year.

After the Yankees had galloped in with the pennant and had slammed the Pittsburgh Pirates in four straight games, there were serious suggestions even from official sources that the team be torn apart for the good of baseball.

WHAT RUPPERT SAID

And Colonel Rupert replied: "Some day we will break up the team but when we do the breaking we will do it to get a stronger team."

From reliable sources it is understood that the club already has obtained Bib Falk from the Chicago White Sox and that Meusel will go in the deal.

The catching staff is very unsatisfactory and although the club has the greatest hope in young Dickey, they must find another experienced man or keep Bengough although he is too fragile.

The pitching staff is numerically light. The manager is looking for Cleveland and one of the Boston pitchers. If they can't get Morris from the Red Sox they will take Ruffing.

Despite the fact that the series he might have been sacrificed.

GAZELLA TO HOLLYWOOD

The club has to send some real good players to minor league clubs for obligations incurred in deals and it is understood that Mike Gazella will go abroad and express his gratitude to Joe Rhodes, a classy young pitcher.

Joe Dugan and Koenig will be offered as bait for other clubs. Huggins hopes, a youngster, will do at third and that Lary, one of the $100,000 coast kids, will fill the bill at short.

Koenig is said to have been placed on the market not because he is out of grace but because some good players have to be included in the deals planned and the management thinks that Koenig can be spared better than others.

With the Bowlers

Taking the deciding game by a single point from the Canadian National Railway, the Quinnettes added another victory to their total in a five-pin fixture played at the Arcade Alleys last night.

Art Porter won the aggregate laurels with a total of 456, while Hunter made the highest figure with 180 points with 180 points to his credit.

HALLOWEEN'S SAFE AND SANE

Lots of Noise But no Damage as Kiddies Celebrate Discreetly

Giant Elephant Form, Parading Streets, Only Alarm-ing Event

Halloween, with its multitude of noises, youthful fun and outlandish costumes, passed away last night in a more staid fashion than usual. It wasn't that the youth of the city didn't enjoy itself. But rather that it didn't turn its absence to destructive channels. There was virtually a clean sheet at city police headquarters this morning so far as property damage was concerned. The outside districts were also remarkably free from trouble.

As was to be expected, a few householders found their garden gates hanging on telephone poles or near-by trees this morning, but in very few cases was wilful damage done. No one was arrested for mischief.

The police forces of the city and Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Saanich were out in strength patrolling the streets but in few cases were they called upon to use their authority. Noise and plenty of it seemed to be the main desire of everyone.

An incident in the downtown section which created considerable merriment was the appearance of an elephant form, slowly parading down Douglas Street about 11 o'clock.

NO FALSE CALLS Members of the city fire department, who felt that Halloween's foreshadowed, a busy evening of running down false alarms, were agreeably surprised. Not one false call was turned in during the evening.

Efforts of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and other organizations to curb disturbances on Halloween are thought to have been in some measure responsible for the absence of damage. Organized play for the smaller children and games for the older ones, together with advice from schools and churches, seemed to work successfully.

JUDGE UPHOLDS CONVICTIONS ON LIQUOR CHARGES

But Decision on Application For Return of Automobiles Is Reserved

Reserving decision upon confiscation by Magistrate Jay of three automobiles, seized in September by the Provincial Police, Mr. Justice Morrison in Supreme Court chambers this morning upheld, under the Liquor Act, convictions registered in Provincial Police Court on October 15, against Charles Cronk, Roy Morrison and Leighton Miles.

The proceedings followed application by Stuart Henderson for writs of certiorari quashing the convictions on grounds of lack of jurisdiction by Magistrate Jay, and lack of authority by the acting clerk, Harry Langley, to administer the oath.

Charles Cronk and Roy Morrison had not been present when automobiles used by them had been confiscated. Leighton Miles and named gulf had been of the opinion that evidence had been submitted. Stuart Henderson challenged admission of the evidence as not properly sworn.

ELECTRICIANS SEE ELEVATOR

"Most Modern Equipment Installed in City" Is the Verdict

First Car of Grain For Elevator Tests Has Left St. Paul De Metis

"The most modern electric installation in the city," was the comment of the Victoria Electrical Contractors' Association, after an informal inspection of the Pacific Grain Terminal Limited, elevator at Ogden Point this week, in company with S. L. Wilson, city wiring inspector. Officials of the company showed the electricians and dealers represented in the association over the plant, which is operated largely by electricity.

Speaking to-day as to the plans for testing out the elevator with the first arrival of grain, James Burden, operating superintendent for the company, said a carload of 1500 bushels of grain, or forty-five tons, was en route to Victoria from St. Paul De Metis, Alberta. He is awaiting exact advice as to when it will reach Victoria.

GIANT UNITS FOR BAY STREET POWER PLANT COST $99,000

Four transformers, too large to travel through the tunnels of the Malahat on the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway, are expected here to-day by installation of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company Limited. The four great assemblies of steel, copper and oil cost over $99,000.

Much of the equipment of the sub-station is already in place, and most of it is now delivered in Victoria. Equipment weighing over sixty tons has been shipped to Jordan River by scow and is expected to be unloaded this afternoon. The machinery is for the new generator under construction at the main dam, to provide an additional 2,000 horsepower, as the water is pushed into the lower station. The main generators seven miles away.

The new equipment generates at 11,000 volts which is passed to the main power station and there stepped up to 60,000 as an addition to the main supply transmitted to Victoria.

ACTOR TELLS ROTARIANS OF BERNARD SHAW

Maurice Colbourne Speaks at Rotary Club Luncheon

Maurice Colbourne, actor-manager, presenting George Bernard Shaw's plays at the Royal Victoria Theatre this week, wittily addressed the Rotary Club at to-day's luncheon at the Empress Hotel, giving a review of the career of the great Irish playwright. Mr. Colbourne recalled that while Mr. Shaw is now wealthy, when he ran away from Ireland to conquer England he was lucky to be able to "sponge" upon his charming mother. His earnings after several years of effort had amounted to £6, of which £5 was for writing headlines for a patent medicine advertisement.

MANY JELLIES The first meeting between Mr. Shaw and his future wife occurred when the writer was in hospital with an infected foot.

"When the sixth pot of jelly arrived he knew he was in for it and suggested hobnobbing around the corner on crutches to the registry office. The best man was a fine appearing fellow," Shaw was sitting, and only by quick action did he prevent the person from marrying the lady to the upstanding best man," Mr. Colbourne recalled amid rounds of laughter.

"Serenity" is the keynote of his existence. He cares nothing for what others may think, and has no great popularity," the speaker remarked.

WITTY STORIES Sparkling narratives of Shaw featured the address, tending to show the caustic wit and ready repartee of "this young-old man who is in reality charmingly courteous."

The interest of Shaw in the movie-tone was subject of one of these sketches, with verbal pictures of Shaw welcoming the movie operators, speaking lines of bitter sarcasm regarding Mussolini. His amusement was profound when he found that his best comments, made "to show how it should be done," were broadcast to the world from London's greatest theatres, to become the greatest attraction of the season.

Mr. Colbourne stated that Mr. Shaw will visit Hollywood next Spring, and will undoubtedly set the whole place on fire.

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 1 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters)—Strife between union waterworks workers and the volunteers who replaced them in the recent strike broke out with renewed violence to-day after a period of quietness following the strike settlement. Volunteer workers boarding a train here for Port Melbourne were attacked by unionists. Several were flung on to the rail line, while others were knocked to the floor or kicked and pushed from the station platform. The fight continued while the train was traveling and at the dock side hundreds of unionists combined to attack the volunteer workers. One was thrown into the sea, but was rescued by comrades; while a volunteer truck driver was struck by a stone and seriously injured.

Ontario Cabinet Is Soon Expected To Announce Surplus

Toronto, Nov. 1.—Ontario's fiscal year 1927-28 closed yesterday. One of the last acts of the Treasury was to deposit a cheque for $1,300,000 from George W. Lee, chairman of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway. This represents the net operating surplus of the railway for the year and is the same as the surplus of last year. The amount indicates, it is stated, that it was the best year in the history of the road when an expenditure of $300,000 on track and right-of-way repairs was taken into consideration.

Neither Premier Ferguson nor Provincial Treasurer Monteth would comment in regard to the condition of the provincial purse, but it is understood the Government expects to be able to announce a surplus of approximately $225,000.

To Lead Orchestra By Television!

Conductor Will Appear Before Two Groups At Same Time, In Person and On Screen

Cincinnati, Nov. 1.—While Fritz Reiner, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, will be conducting his musicians on the stage of the concert hall here, he will also appear before a smaller orchestra far removed from the first and separated by thick walls!

Thus one man will appear in two places at the same time. The catch is that while Reiner will direct one orchestra in person he will appear before the other by television.

Reiner's will be the first attempt to make use of television in the production of a difficult symphony. This is the Mahler Symphony No. 2, which calls at one point for a full orchestra, organ, soloists and a small orchestra back stage.

This piece will be played in a concert on the night of November 17 in this city. It has been played before, but in every case an assistant director had to be employed to conduct the smaller orchestra back stage and keep his eyes glued through a hole in the wall on Reiner, in order to maintain the same tempo.

The difficulty was that, because of this arrangement, Reiner could not achieve the sound effects he desired, especially from the auxiliary orchestra. According to Reiner, Mahler's score demands that the sound of the small orchestra be comparable to a faint, almost inaudible breath of music brought to the listener only occasionally as if wafted over by the wind.

In the former arrangement, the smaller orchestra had to be back stage and therefore too close to the audience to produce the effect desired. The assistant director, leading the small group, would have to be separated from Reiner only by a curtain or wall through which a hole had been pierced, in order that he may keep in close harmony and time with the main orchestra.

Directing his main orchestra in person and televising his movements to another group far back stage, Fritz Reiner, shown in inset, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, believes he will be able to produce a more perfect rendition of the difficult Mahler Symphony No. 2.

Through the use of television, however, Reiner can relegate the small orchestra back far enough from the stage so as to produce the reality of faintness and distance required by the score.

LIKE BROADCASTING "MIKE"
Standing on the stage before Reiner, while he is conducting the main orchestra, will be a television transmitter which will catch the movements of the director. On a small television screen in the room occupied by the small orchestra, Reiner and his baton will appear.

The movements of Reiner on the screen will be simultaneous with his actions on the stage in person and will be directed not only for the large group but for the hidden orchestra as well.

Thus the second orchestra, though hidden from view and more distant than heretofore, will be able to keep exact time with the musicians on the stage. By certain predetermined signals and movements they will know what directions will be meant for them and which will be directed to the main orchestra, and they will then be better able to produce the right effects to make the entire symphony a success.

NEW ZEALANDERS SEEK FARM LAND

Farmers' Sons Seeking Opportunities in British Columbia

Inquiries Made Regarding Low Priced Acreage Here

Plans are being considered by the Provincial Government in connection with settlement proposals for the establishment of a number of young New Zealanders on land in British Columbia. It was made known at the Department of Agriculture to-day.

In connection with the scheme, Major H. M. Clark of Auckland recently conferred with officials of the Agricultural and Lands Departments, where he secured information on land available in this Province either ready to farm immediately or suitable to be turned into good farming land.

The plan under consideration, Major Clark stated, is for settlement of young New Zealanders who are farmers' sons with land experience. Rising prices of land in New Zealand have forced them to the cities, where their previous farming experience is wasted. They fit better into farming life than city life, Major Clark explained, and to set them in better environment, comparatively low-priced land in British Columbia is desired. The men would have capital ranging from $1,000 to $10,000.

TO BOOST B.C.
Major Clark, who returned on the last boat to the Antipodes, took back with him literature from both departments to put before the young New Zealanders directing their attention to British Columbia.

The whole subject of land settlement has been stimulated by recent talk on the subject. Following the avalanche of letters from Eastern Canada, which resulted from the report that British Columbia was offering $2,000 cash, forty acres and a log-cabin to settlers, letters are now arriving from England from writers who have not seen the contradiction of the wild rumor.

Apart from inquiries which this report led to, however, many others have been received from persons in England and Scotland indicating that British Columbia is looked upon in Great Britain as a desirable place for those seeking farm land.

Major Hamilton Leaves Office

The resignation of Major A. V. Hamilton, assistant purchasing agent for the British Columbia Government, was filed Monday, to take effect to-day. The newly-appointed purchasing agent, Victor A. Rollins, takes over his duties to-day.

J. P. Dougherty yesterday ended his duties as Superintendent of Insurance, the work being taken over to-day by H. G. Garrett, Registrar of Joint Stock Companies. Mr. Dougherty will re-enter the insurance business in Vancouver.

Business Volume Runs 5 Per Cent Larger This Year

The volume of business transacted in the United States during the final quarter of 1928 is likely to be approximately five per cent larger than the volume transacted in the fourth quarter of last year, says the November issue of B.C. Bond Corporation's Graphic Market Review. This is according to estimates made by thousands of business men regarding the probable number of freight cars that will be required to move goods over the nation's railroads. These estimates have proven remarkably accurate in the light of subsequent demand for freight cars.

By comparison with the final three month period of 1927, it is expected that the present quarter year period will see larger carloadings of freight as follows: New England, 2.5 per cent; Atlantic States, 6 per cent; Allegheny section, 15.6 per cent; Great Lake section, 10.5 per cent; Southeast 4 per cent; Midwest, 7 per cent; Northwest, 3.2 per cent; Trans-Missouri-Kansas section, 7.5 per cent;

Southeast, 12.1 per cent Pacific Coast, 1.8 per cent Pacific Northwest, 2.5 per cent. Substantial increases are anticipated in carloadings of most leading specific commodities.

The indicated 1928 final quarter improvement in business will without doubt be reflected in an increase in earnings for numerous business concerns particularly the large corporations whose shares are widely held by the public.

Calgary Driver Is Believed Murdered

Calgary, Nov. 1.—Believed to have been the victim of a murderer, the body of Frank Stewart, thirty-four, a taxi driver who was employed by the Wares Taxi Company, is being sought by the police following the finding of Stewart's empty car on the prairie near the west end of this city yesterday morning.

The windshield of the automobile had been smashed by two or more bullets, the front seat was covered with blood and a bullet lay on the floor near the driving wheel.

There was no trace of Stewart or the body, but an examination of the car by the police leads them to believe the man had been shot from behind, the body disposed of and the car then driven to the place where it was found.

NELSON'S HALLOWEEN

Nelson, Nov. 1.—Thousands of Nelson school children enjoyed themselves last night at a monster civic celebration of Halloween. A parade of children in costume, led by three bands, made its way through the main streets of the city to the recreation grounds, lighted by four great searchlights. Monster bonfires were prepared and ignited. Effigies of schools, St. Nick, teachers, studies and other things too numerous to mention were cast into the flames. Contests of many descriptions were run off, and each child received candies and nuts.

STOCK MARKET — FINANCIAL NEWS — GRAIN MARKETS

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)
Winnipeg, Nov. 1.—Wheat 1 1/2 higher and ruled strong all day, prices advancing from 1 1/2 to 1 1/2 over last night's close, with the November showing the most strength. There was a good class of buying by exporters during the first period, while millers took moderate quantities later. One large export house that was buying early were good sellers later. Offerings were again light, there being very little trading, while the pool were doing nothing.

There appears to be a change of sentiment and many who have been bearish have now gone long and the market is said to be a little over bought. The trade are looking for some bullish features to Herbert Hoover's speech on Friday night, and probably some bullish features to Argentina news tomorrow.

In the cash market there was a better demand for the lower grades than in any previous day this week and overnight export sales were reported to be in fair volume. Spreads were unchanged to half better. During the last hour there was some profit taking by long and the market fell away from the high points as the demand appeared to have become satisfied.

Liverpool was stronger than due, closing 1/4 higher. The fear is expressed that the Canadian government will revise their estimate downward in their report due November 12. Canadian movement is still large and stocks continue to pile up, while export business is not as large as it was expected to be.

Coarse grains: There was only a moderate merchandising business piling up in the coarse grains and some spreading between the different months. Export business was quiet and small. Offerings continue very light.

Flax—Trade very small with no interest being shown. Market featureless.

The Riddle of Siwa

By DIXON KAYE
Author of "Dr. Burney's Greatest Case."

"Yes, that is the Pyramid of Siwa," he murmured. "There is not a doubt of that."

Ibrahim, too, was looking through his field glasses, and suddenly became interested in something new.

"Do you see that cloud of sand far away to the right?" he asked the Englishman.

Seymour studied the desert keenly; but it was some time before he could pick it up. Ibrahim's eyes were much sharper and better trained than his.

"Yes, I see it," he called back. "What do you think it is?" Seymour queried.

"Is it a caravan?" Seymour queried.

"Hardly," was the answer. "It moves too quickly. No, that is a large body of horsemen."

He halted the caravan.

"And what are they doing here?" asked the other.

"I strongly suspect," replied Ibrahim, "that they are looking for us."

"Then, if they are looking for us," said Seymour, "I believe they have spotted us, for they are wheeling this way. Are they armed?"

"Very much so," was the answer. "Look at the glitter of their silver helmets round which their turbans are coiled."

"But what is to be done?" asked the Englishman. "Are they going to attack us?"

But all doubt on this score was soon put at an end.

A squadron wheeled out from the rest and dismounted. In a twinkling their horses were whirled away by the horse-holders; then the dismounted line extended, lying down, right across the path of Ibrahim's caravan.

"There is not much doubt about that," commented Ibrahim.

He gave a few orders, and the men who had been preparing for breakfast packed it all up again.

"Then another order, and the advance guard which had come in, dismounted and handed their camels over to the camel men, who at once took them behind a mound of sand and made them kneel down. The rest of the caravan followed their example in a few minutes and got out of sight.

"We had better dismount, too," said Ibrahim, as he thrust a magazine rifle and a bandolier into Seymour's hands. "We shall have to take a hand with the rest; there is a large body of cavalry there."

"How many?" asked Seymour.

"I should say about five hundred," was the answer.

The Englishman wondered how they were going to get through. Nevertheless, he slung on his bandolier, and charged his magazine.

He found himself lying down next to the Prince, with Ibrahim on the farther side. The rear guard had dis-cannot think of everything in a scrap like this. I am afraid our breakfast will not be very good."

However, before the camp was out of sight, the second cook and his assistants were busily engaged upon it; the camels had been brought up and duly unloaded.

But for one or two wounded men lying about, there was nothing unusual in the encampment; and when the breakfast arrived Seymour noticed nothing wanting about it. There were delicious fruit cakes, eggs, and coffee and milk of the best. The meal was practically an English breakfast.

"Hullo!" exclaimed Seymour as they were eating. "Here comes an aeroplane. What does it want?"

"Attracted by the firing I expect," Ibrahim answered. "They must have heard the firing of your army."

The plane circled round them once or twice, and then glided to earth. An obvious officer, quite a young man, advanced and in very good Arabic enquired if anything were wrong.

"I am one of the Patrol from Port Said," he heard your firing, the young man said, "and thought there might be a fight."

"So there was," answered Ibrahim, much to his surprise in English. "You were just a few minutes too late for it. It's all over now."

"I hope you came out on top side," the new arrival ventured. "I don't see any signs of your army."

"They have departed," replied Ibrahim, "and we don't expect to see any more of them."

"Are there anything I can do for you?" asked the aviator.

"Yes," replied Ibrahim, "you can drink a glass of ice champagne with us."

"I can do that without an effort," the young officer replied. "I think the sand of the desert has got into my throat this morning."

The ice champagne being despatched, and breakfast disposed of, the caravan prepared for a move. Ibrahim took the young officer's arm and went with him towards his plane. They seemed to be in earnest conversation.

At last they parted at the plane. The young officer, saluting Ibrahim very ceremoniously. Then he swung into his seat, took a grip of the "sticks," and flew away into the air.

"Rather a nice young man that," commented Ibrahim. "I think he will be useful to us."

The packing up was now finished, and the Prince, Ibrahim and Seymour swung into their saddles, as they hoped, for the last stage of the journey.

The Pyramid stood out bold and clear, and seemed only a few miles away.

"The atmosphere of the desert is very deceiving, as you no doubt know," Ibrahim said to Seymour. "It looks about ten miles from here, but is really over twenty. I hope to get there before the mid-day halt. It is now seven o'clock," he announced, looking at his wrist watch. "We ought to get there easily by twelve."

They struck out along the desert as usual, Seymour full of anticipation and hope that he was to see Eva; the Prince broody in his saddle, wondering when he could get back to his wife and children.

But all long journeys come to an end; they were at last before the great brick edifice of the Pyramid.

Seymour was listening attentively. "I do not hear the noise of the breaking of the sea upon the beach," he said to the Prince as he halted by him.

The Prince turned to him, smiling. "You will not hear the breaking of the waves to-day," he said. "That is a sign of ill omen. You return as a conqueror, with me in your train. It is a day of triumph."

The Prince, Ibrahim and Seymour dismounted opposite the door from which the latter had issued with Osman at the beginning of his fateful journey to England.

As they gazed at it, it opened, and there came forth several figures. One Seymour knew at once to be Osman; the two approached each other, a smile lighting up Osman's face as he took Seymour's hand and kissed him on each cheek.

"Did I not tell you," he said, "that you would return victorious with Prince Ahmed?"

Osman bowed low to the Prince, who gave him his hand.

"You have been through a most wonderful experience, your Highness," Osman said, "and a most wonderful rescue by Mr. Barham. But come," he continued, "His Highness Prince Abdullah, the High Priest, awaits us in the room of audience."

All through the night of Halloween the Tintines were on the alert and having heard of fun till time to go to bed. The captain then said, "Hey, you boys will have to stop this awful noise. You're keeping me awake, and I'm an awful sleepy head."

"I've let you run and shout and play, but now you'd best be on your way and take a trip to slumberland. The sleep will do you good." The Tintines agreed that he was just as right as he could be. So off they ran to go to bed just as all good boys should.

At break of day the captain came and looked at them. Why, it's a shame," said he, "to spoil their slumber, but it's time that they arose. The horn for breakfast shortly blows. I think I'll tuck all their toes until they come from slumberland, and open up their eyes."

When this was started, Clowdy jumped. Oh my, oh my, how his heart thumped. "You scared me," he exclaimed. And then the others woke up too. "The time to eat," the captain cried. "Some breakfast food will soon be tried." The Tintines were seated, and they ate till they were through.

Then, out on deck they satly went. Away up front the whole bunch spent their time at gazing at the waves, and then up at the sail. Then something big, wee, Copsy spied, and shortly very loudly cried, "Oh, look down in the water! There's our good old friend, the whale!"

Right quick they threw a lengthy rope out to the splashing whale in hope that he would grab a hold of it and pull the ship along. "If we're in luck we'll have a ride that's really thrilling," Clowdy cried. "I'm sure the whale could pull us, 'cause I know he's very strong."

BEDTIME STORY Uncle Wiggly And Bunty's Boost

Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
(By Howard R. Garis)

"Do you know what I'm going to do?" asked Baby Bunty one afternoon when she and Tangle and Tangle, having come home from school, were playing in Uncle Wiggly's hollow stump bungalow.

"You know what I am going to do?"

"You are going to ask Nurse Jane for a piece of cranberry pie," was what Tangle said.

"Maybe you are going to play tag," said Tangle.

"No," said Baby Bunty, looking at the other two little girls who were almost like sisters to her. "I'm not going to do either of those things. I am going up the chimney."

"Up the chimney?" cried Tangle and Tangle. They meant chimney, of course, and so did Baby Bunty. But it was rather a hard word for them to say.

"Yes," said Bunty again. "I am going up the chimney," and she pointed to the big chimney of the fireplace in the room where Uncle Wiggly sat to read the Bedtime Story in the paper each evening. There was no fire, now, on the hearth.

"Why are you going up the chimney?" asked Tangle.

"And how are you going to get up it?" asked Tangle.

"I am going up," said Bunty, "to see if it's all right for Santa Claus to come down. Next month is Christmas, you know and Santa Claus will be coming down our chimney. But if it's all stopped up he can't climb down."

"That's so," said Tangle.

"But how are you going to get up our chimney, Bunty?" asked Tangle.

"I think I can climb up if you will give me a boost," said Bunty, by which she meant she wanted Tangle and Tangle to give her a little push, or shove, up the chimney.

"We won't do that," said the other little rabbit girls. "But you'll get all black from the soot in the chimney, Bunty."

"I have old clothes on," said Bunty. "Now come on and give me a boost up the chimney."

She crawled into the fireplace, which was a large one, and standing on the andirons upon which the logs of wood rest when they blaze so merrily, Bunty thrust her head and front paws up the black opening of the chimney.

"Is it stopped up?" asked Tangle.

"I can't see yet," Bunty answered. "I can see a little bit of the sky out the top of the chimney, but I better crawl up it a ways to make sure it is clear. Give me a boost."

So Tangle and Tangle gave Bunty a

STRICKEN DOWN IN PRIME OF LIFE

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Rid Her of Crippling Rheumatism

How terrible it is to think of men and women stricken down with disease, just when they should be enjoying life to the full. How wonderful to know, however, that such dangerous disorders as Rheumatism, Pain in the Back, Irritated Bladder, Indigestion, Biliousness and other troubles of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bowels are quickly relieved by the wonderful medicine, "Fruit-a-tives."

From Enderby, in the beautiful Okanagan Valley of British Columbia, Mrs. E. Deschamps writes: "I have received great benefit from 'Fruit-a-tives,' especially when I had Rheumatism very badly some years ago. I keep 'Fruit-a-tives' always in the house, as I think they are a wonderful medicine." For more than a quarter of a century "Fruit-a-tives" has been one of the dependable home remedy. 25c and 50c a box—at dealers everywhere. (Adv.)

One Mother Says:

"I don't want to clean up! Why do I have to do that? When a small girl doesn't want to go to the wash-bowl, the Beauty Game is a good one to play. It makes a tiresome routine something new and delightful. The Beauty Shop operator, who is really Mother, says, 'Now I'm going to give you one of those new facials, Miss Betty! First I use this lovely imported soap. Most people charge a dollar for a good lathering. But I do that free, or let you do it yourself. I see you are very particular about your ears! Now the rinse. That is an important part of a beauty treatment—to get off all soap. Now this lovely clean towel. It's only a dime for regular customers!'"

To-morrow's Horoscope

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1928

Dominated by a benefic aspect of the sun, this should be a fairly fortunate day, according to astrology.

It is a time for both men and women to seek improvement in their financial affairs. The planet Mercury is especially stimulating to men and women to the public eye and is supposed to make all who desire high place exceedingly sanguine. The direction of the stars may contribute to the success of secret plans or even of trigue. Deception is supposed to be mildly successful to-day. Jupiter is in a place that promises great prosperity for the United States and business enterprises abroad. While this country is to continue to lead in world progress, there is a threatening sign for China and the Near East. In certain parts of the world military force will be necessary and danger of serious engagements in foreign lands is forecast. From the sea will come amazing tales of accidents and violence; the sea, however, and they forecast a frightful accident in the air. Peace movements will continue to gain attention all through the winter, which may bring new illustrations of the horrors of modern warfare in Europe and Asia.

Women will find this a lucky day for shopping and they should be lucky in being able to choose what is becoming. Astrologers, who for months have been predicting return to the ideals of fluff, femininity, frothy great-greats of decorated beauty among women who will be less artificial than they have been, since the World War.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid all domestic differences in the coming year when family quarrels may easily become serious. Business matters should be satisfactory. Children born on this day may be exceedingly fond of traveling. These subjects of astrology usually only the "sun" are identified and attractive in appearance. (Copyright, 1928)

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sour. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkaline is to medical science is alkali known as Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the fifty years since its invention. One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid. The symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try. Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for fifty years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggist. (Adv.)

The committee is now completing organization of the competitions for the coming season. The cup has been given to encourage the study of elocution, with the proviso that debates held for the trophy must deal with Canadian topics.

SUNBEAMS FEW IN MONTH PAST

October Marked by Great Drop in Sunshine

Fifty hours less sunshine than the average for October, more rain and lower temperatures marked the weather experienced by Victoria during the last month, according to the records of the Gonzales Heights Observatory, compiled by F. Napier Denison.

The rainfall was .73 of inch above the average, being 3.58 inches. The total rainfall for the year is still great, by the lowest previous experience for the ten months, being 15.36 inches compared with 18.15 inches normally recorded.

Clouds and fog cut total sunshine to 50 hours and 12 minutes, a reduction of 50 hours from the average experience of October.

Mean temperature was 50 degrees, one degree below normal. The highest daily report was 63 degrees on October 8 and the lowest 41 degrees on October 26. The lowest temperature recorded at the Observatory was 32 degrees on October 21.

LANDPLANES VS. SEAPLANES

the trenches in France. (I mention this merely because you try to add to your prestige by informing us that you flew during the war—mostly seaplanes over the Channel, was it not?)

I regret that you have made it necessary to discuss the hazards of flying. Such a discussion will not help aviation in this city. It would be futile to continue such an argument with you. Either you cannot or you will not face the real issues in four-square fashion. ad lib. Space is not available to answer you as you apparently need to be answered.

You say that the European aviation companies all cross the English Channel at its nearest point, twenty-one miles. That is not so. Only a few days ago I was discussing the European practice with an acquaintance who has just returned from a visit to Europe, in which he made several journeys by air. He told me that he made a trip across forty miles of English Channel.

Incidentally, he was flying in a twin-motored landplane. When the plane was well out over the channel one of these engines failed. With the other plane easily completed its over-water flight and landed on English soil so that the faulty engine might be repaired and the journey to Crocydon continued. It had had an even better guarantee of safety from a forced landing in the Channel.

But on this point again you avoid the real issue, Mr. Pickles. At its narrowest point the Channel is twenty-one miles wide. But you say that it is perfectly all right for European land planes to cross the Channel because they fly over a hundred miles or so of land before coming to the water jump. What a curiously twisted logical process! Then, if the B.C. Airways plane flew over the land instead of crossing the Strait, would you reason that it was equally safe for it to cross a stretch of seventeen and one-half miles of water? If flying over land in a landplane makes that water jump safe, surely it would be even safer for one Imperial Airways' plane not to start at Paris for London, but to fly down to Marseilles first and then over land before arriving at the Channel. Since there is some miraculous virtue in the act of flying over water, it would be unsafe for a land plane to fly over land planes from Vancouver to Victoria, but perfectly safe to make that water jump if you start at Calgary and fly over Vancouver. That is your line of reasoning.

If the European companies thought there was any danger in flying land planes over the Channel they could easily avoid it. Seaplanes can land in both the English and the Seine marshes lying along the route to serve as emergency landing.

Pickles: You say that it is unfair, perhaps it is. But this is not: that if the Imperial Airways considered the cross-Channel jump dangerous, it could quite easily fly passengers in land planes from Crocydon to the coast, embark them in seaplanes and then fly in the Channel, French coast for the rest of the trip to Paris. Surely the incurring of extra expense and the matter of a little inconvenience is warranted if by these means valuable human lives may be saved. The Imperial Airways should be able to afford the extra equipment.

It has been getting a subsidy of about $500,000 a year from the British Government and the other European lines are likewise subsidized.

But that would be cumbersome and unnecessary, you say. Of course! For experts of Europe know that flying in the Channel is safe.

Now, please do not draw the red herring of radio and fog across the trail. Fog is not a new thing. It has been flying over the Channel since the days of navigation established here and there. The pilots of the B.C. Airways' tri-motored, all-metal landplane is safe. The danger of forced landings is immeasurably remote. The plane has three engines and can reach its destination or return to port even if two of those engines do fail.

When, Mr. Pickles, you condemn what the European governments encourage with large money subsidies each year and what the European experts (real experts these, perhaps) do not realize the magnitude of your egotism.

The British have been flying passengers across the Channel for nine years in single-motored landplanes and three-motored landplanes, not in seaplanes. The Germans, Dutch and French have been doing likewise, though not for so long. Now, please do not quote you a pilot for special taxi trips. The trend in equipment is towards the three-engine, all-metal, all-metal planes almost exclusively.

For the most extensive commercial aviation system in the world, use all-metal planes almost exclusively.

Every day in summertime the Imperial Airways is doing about fifteen times a day what you, Mr. Pickles, are doing. It is not doing it, it is despatching landplanes across water, flying north or south. Foreign planes bring the number of cross-Channel flights in landplanes up to about twenty-five a day. And yet you venture to tell me that the B.C. Airways' plane is not safe.

The Imperial Airways carried 52,000 passengers without accident or injury or loss of life to anyone between January 1, 1923, and November 15, 1927, when the directors issued their report. Since then their record of operations has been maintained. In 1928, 28,500 travelers by air arrived in London. Of these 17,000 were carried by the Imperial Airways.

Let me mention the performance of one of the three-motored types the Imperial Airways uses across the Channel. The De Havilland "Hercules" will fly with a full load of fourteen passengers, plus freight and baggage, with any two of its three motors operating. Flying thus, its speed is 85 miles an hour. If two of its motors fail, it will give the plane a range of sixty miles from an altitude of 8,000 feet. In other words, it is a similar performance to that of a similar machine for the trans-strait flight.

Does it not occur to you, Mr. Pickles, that your attitude is relatively wasted on Victoria? Why not carry the crusade for the seaplane to the place where it could do most good—in London? Why not go to Europe and try to prevent the European companies from risking so many valuable lives? Victorians, general would be the lower, since humor is a precious thing, but the B.C. Airways would not be for one fact afraid of the public. Please don't think of the number of the intoxicated joy of free publicity. I am reminded of the well-known line, "Me thinks the young man doth protest too much."

PLANE SERVICE MERGER IN U.S.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Negotiations for a $6,000,000 consolidation of nine aviation companies operating air lines factories and schools throughout the Middle West have been consummated with the announcement that the Universal Air Lines and the Western Air Express have acquired control of the Fokker Corporation of America.

The combined company is to be named the University Aviation Corporation.

AT THE THEATRES

NEW ACTRESS IN "SHOW GIRL" HERE AT THE CAPITOL

The screen has acquired a new featured actress in its cinematic firmament. She is Alice White, tiny, blonde, vivacious actress who has won such devoted popularity in the past two years of her screen career that First National Pictures is making a series of four Alice White pictures during the year.

"Show Girl," the first of the series, is a special new showing at the Capitol Theatre here today, Friday and Saturday. It promises to be the fastest moving farce comedy the screen has welcomed in many a month.

Miss White, since her debut as an actress two years ago, has given brilliant performances in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," "The Big Noise," "Liner Blonds," "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," and pictures of similar note.

The stage attractions at the Capitol for this week include Galangis, a comedy musical revue. This juvenile show is an act that is outstanding. August Prosterl, Italian comic, and Sugar Foot, halled as the sweetest dancer in town, are also on the programme. The Capitol stage band also will play the standard hits, complete the bill of the week, which will be offered twice daily.

TOM MIX AND TONY NOW AT THE COLUMBIA

Tom Mix and his horse, Tony, stars inseparable in the minds of the multitude of followers of Western pictures on the screen. The world's realized he has done it again.

In the "Son of the Golden West," the first of a series of special productions first at the Columbia, which is now at the Columbia Theatre, he is seen in a variation of his familiar cowboy roles—that of a "pony express" rider of the days when the pioneers were battling to plant civilization in the great West.

PETIT BLONDE STAR HAS LEADING ROLE AT PLAYHOUSE

Heinie Conklin was so good in Laura La Plante's starring vehicle "Beware of Widows" that he was re-engaged for her latest production "Silk Stockings," which is now at the Playhouse Theatre.

John Harron plays the opposite of the chosen supporting cast includes Ollie Harlan, William Austin, Temple Pigot, Marceline Day, and Charles Chertington. Also showing on the same bill are "The Marriage of Figaro" and "The Marriage of Figaro."

JACK HOLT PLAYS AT COLISEUM WITH JAXON COMPANY

Jack Holt, popular player with the Lee Jaxon company at the Coliseum Theatre is well cast this week in "Two Old Sweethearts," the stage attraction which the company are offering every evening. Mr. Holt plays the part of a young husband whose wife is suspicious of his fidelity and who generally leads him the proverbial dog's life.

She insists that two blonde beauties, one of whom is a blonde with blonde hair, should be no more than a woman who makes his life almost unbearable. Mr. Holt is the possessor of a baritone voice of some power, and the audience will find a selection of this week.

Ether Ralston in "Half a Bride" for the chosen by Manager McEwan for the week and is proving popular with large and enthusiastic audiences who fill the Coliseum every evening. It concerns a young girl who is kidnapped on her father's yacht and the subsequent wrecking of the yacht on a desert isle.

COST THOUSANDS TO FILM PICTURE AT THE DOMINION

The location trip of First National's "The Patent Leather Kid" company, when they made the battle scenes for this Broadway dramatic sensation, at the Dominion Theatre all this week, cost thousands of dollars in location work during the seven weeks of location work.

The payroll of the company ran between $7,500 and $10,000 per day, depending upon the number of men used. More than 1,200 little men were given work as "German" army members. Over 5,000 U. S. regulars worked in the scene.

Field telephone lines two miles long were laid to connect the tanks and fleet of motor trucks with the location. Hundreds of thousands of rounds of ammunition were used. Each time a rifle was shot it cost the company four cents.

A crew of business executives, under the direction of Al. Rockett, manager of the production, had offices on the location, where every detail of the business management was carefully checked.

DOUBLE BILL AT THE ROYAL

London Company Will Present "Candida" and "Henry V." To-night

When Maurice Colbourne got Bernard Shaw's permission to cut the critics' powwows out of "Faithful's First Play" and put a complete play, "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets," in their place, he realized he was giving theatre-goers full measure for their money; in fact, a real dramatic feast. This naturally pleased him and made him ask "Why not a certain raise to Candida; too?"

The presence in his company as guest star of Balliol Holloway made the answer to the question an emphatic "Yes" and the result is a comedy excerpt from Henry V. which will give lovers of the theatre a chance to see what a magnificent actor has won fame on two continents in all the great Shakespearean roles. The precise scene which Mr. Colbourne offers is King Henry's wooing of Princess Katherine of France.

The fun it due to the fact that the conqueror of Agincourt, while unvalued on the field of Mars, is unvalued in the gentler arts of Cupid and Venus, and when, moreover, the object of his affections can speak no English and he can speak no French he conducts his wooing at a decided disadvantage.

Barbara Wilson, one of the irrepressible trines of "You Never Can Tell," will play the piquant princess, while Candida, acknowledged to be one of Shaw's masterpieces, will be cast as follows: Balliol Holloway will play Mowbray, a village clergyman of advanced views; Haroldine Humphreys, Candida herself, lovely in the quaint clothes of 1604; Rule Pyott, her old humpbacked father; Constance Pelissier, the intimate "Popsy"; and Mr. Colbourne will appear as Marchmonts, the poet, which is perhaps, the most discussed and fought over part of any play of the present century.

These two plays will be given at the Royal to-night and to-morrow evening.
